A beaten, but a still smiling Barry Gordon congratulates Leona Dombrowsky on her victory in the provincial election.

Liberal majori

As suspected Liberal MPP Leona Dombrowsky has retained her seat in Hastings-Frontenac-Lennox & Addington winning by a healthy majority over her nearest rival Tory Barry Gordon. Ms. Dombrowsky credits the efforts of her campaign team for the victory.

"I'm really overwhelmed with the support we received," she said. "I think the work that my staff and the people who worked with me have done over the last four years has obviously paid off. "We have worked very hard and we have made a difference."

Ms. Dombrowsky received over 50% of the votes cast in the riding increasing her totals over 1999 by five percent.

Health care was a major issue in the riding Ms. Dombrowsky said noting her party would be making health care a priority. Doctor shortages are a big issue in my riding," she said. "Dalton McGuinty has indicated he will be establishing 150 community health centres - I'm certainly going to be working to see our riding gets some recognition in that regard."

Ms. Dombrowsky is expected to be included in the new Liberal cabinet. She is being touted as fill the position of minister for children's affairs. Ms. Dombrowsky, however, is taking nothing for granted in that regard saying tell you anything because I don't cabinet," she told. Unofficial results for the shown below.

Centre Hastings facing bills for compliance

By Lawrence McAllister
Centre Hastings Council met on Wednesday, September 24th in Ivanhoe.

Councillor Vern Cooney questioned the resolution passed during the previous council meeting, regarding the paving of the entry to the landfill site, now that council has decided not to support the full cost of $9,000. The Public Works Superintendent said that the intention is to pave from Highway

7 to the pad and the cost would be $5,000. The cost will be charged to the landfill site budget.

Council received a letter from St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in Madoc that invited members of council to the church's 150th anniversary on October 26th.

Deputy Reeve Larry Mitz reported on the lack of proper air conditioning for the Ivanhoe hall. He said a contractor had reviewed the present system and the proposed changes would cost about $11,000, excluding taxes and some wiring upgrades. The issue will be sent to budget for next year.

Fire Chief Horton requested a wage increase for this year for the fire fighters to $12 per hour from $11.50, a rate in effect since the amalgamation, and council approved this. Chief Horton then discussed the need for back up power at the north Hall. The cost, he said, for an automatic diesel system is between $10,000 to $12,000 and that government funding is available. Council approved the submission of an application for funding for the generator system.

Council reviewed the Schedule for the Burkitt development on Wellington Court, with the Clerk saying that from the submission of applications on Council's behalf by Totten Sims Hubicki Associates they have just been advised that the additional information required by the Ministry will take a month for Totten Sims Hubicki Associates Staff to complete and likely another month before approval is received. Reeve Deline said this is unacceptable and council passed a motion to advise Totten Sims Hubicki Associates that four weeks is unacceptable, and that they have 10 days someone else to complete the

OPP in midst of Fall Seatbelt Campaign

Goal is to see 95% seat belt use or more; child car seat inspection clinic 25th October

The annual Fall Seatbelt Campaign is now on, running from September 27th to October 5th. Central Hastings OPP is again very active in this program.

Officers will be stopping vehicle to check for seatbelt compliance, and they will also be doing mobile seatbelt checks.

The result of not wearing seatbelts is often preventable serious injuries and even death. It is our goal to ensure that all motorists drive as safely as possible and that all drivers and passengers are "buckled up" so that the risk of any injury is minimized. We are continuing to strive to achieve Ontario's goal of 95 percent seat belt compliance, and in particular to ensure the safety of children in vehicles.

Central Hastings OPP in conjunction with the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit and Gateway to Community Health Centre will be holding a child car seat inspection clinic on Saturday the 25th of October 2003 at the Central Hastings OPP Detachment located at 105953

Hwy 7 in Madoc from 10 AM to 1 PM. This is an opportunity for parents to have their child's car seat inspected, installed or adjusted to ensure it is as safe as possible.

Parents are asked to bring along the child that rides in the seat, so that all of the adjustments can be made.

Central Hastings officers will be involved in the inspectors, but will not be enforcing seatbelt regulations. The role of the officers participating in the clinic that day, will be strictly to help people make their child's car seat as safe as possible.

This is a free service. The inspections will be done in the detachment garage, so that inclement weather will not affect the clinic.

Letter to the Editor

Opponents of hog farm invited to Hastings Federation of Agriculture annual meeting

To the Editor,

We were pleased to be invited to last Friday's annual meeting of the Hastings Federation of Agriculture, where we enjoyed an excellent meal and some congenial company. The guest speaker was Jim Dalrymple, a statistical apologist for the intensive livestock industry, whose presentation was intended to counter some perceived criticism of livestock farming in general and, as became clear in discussions that followed, of the proposed Kinlin Rd. megahog factory in particular. His general message that farmers are doing an excellent job under difficult market conditions rings true. Let us lend our voices to that chorus. Farmers are doing an impressive, vital job, not always with the thanks they so richly deserve.

What saddened us though was the apparent need to demonize and dismiss as irrelevant the concerns of groups such as Farms not Factories who oppose the Kinlin Rd. hog factory. Once again, we found our position portrayed as 'anti-farming' in general. We are told that there is concern among farmers that if Mr. Slack is not allowed to build on Kinlin Rd., others will be prevented from building or expanding.
Let us state once again, as emphatically as possible, that this is not our goal. We and Tweed Municipal Council oppose the Kinlin Rd. development because it is the wrong kind of operation in the wrong location. We support family farms but we cannot support this large scale liquid manure-producing operation in close proximity to our homes, beside sensitive wetlands, on a narrow road with several low-capacity bridges that will not stand up to the numerous overweight trucks required to construct and service it on an ongoing basis. This particular operation is from every angle just a bad idea, especially if we consider one of Mr. Dalrymple's own numbers. Apparently, in the year 2000 (we assume that these are the most recent statistics available) there were 4550 hogs in Hastings County. Mr. Slack proposes to add 2000-2500 more hogs to the total. This means that close to one half of all the hogs in Hastings County will then be located in one barn, on one very unsuitable site on Kinlin Rd.

We went to Friday's meeting to listen and while Mr. Dalrymple's statistics were impressive, certainly they were presented with a dizzying spin designed to portray the pork industry in a positively pink glow. At times, his comparisons were bizarre, as when he claimed, under the heading
'Biosecurity', that hospitals had valuable lessons to learn from intensive hog operations. We all know our hospitals are short-staffed and overcrowded, but surely we will never want to condemn our sick and frail to a state of perpetual quarantine, cramped into stressful conditions where disease can run so rampant they must be fed a lifetime diet of antibiotics, all the while suspended over a cesspool of their own feces. If that sounds like us putting on our own spin, you may well be right. Last Friday evening we learned the art from an expert spin-doctor. However, this has not been our style in the past and we don't intend to make it a habit in the future. This kind of rhetoric is bound to cause growing frustration on both sides of the issue and has led to an unfortunate division in the community that has been remarked upon by all concerned. Characterizing our legitimate concerns as 'bull*' (this from one ineloquent commentator at the meeting) is not helpful.

'We need a dialogue.
Farms not Factories has never wanted to alienate the farm community and we would like to propose a meeting between Farms not Factories, local farmers, Mr.
Slack, Council and other interested parties. Perhaps a debate would be more helpful than one-sided spin doctoring. In the end, this is a good-neighbour issue; there are legitimate concerns here that must be addressed - not dismissed.

Sincerely,
Will Verhulst

Factories

Children's toys by the vanload

Mary Jane McLaughlin of the Ontario Early Years Centre talks to those attending a playgroup at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in Madoc last Wednesday. photo: Lawrence McAllister

By Lawrence McAllister

The Gateway Community Health Centre in Tweed is running a playgroup for toddlers in Marlbank, Tweed, Madoc and Marmora.

Madoc's playgroup is held every Wednesday morning from 9:30 to 11:30 in the basement of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church on St. Lawrence St. West. Everyone is welcome and there is no charge. Parents and care givers can come out and enjoy playing with their children, meeting other parents, and encouraging their children to enjoy age-appropriate experiences.

Complementing the playgroup is the Ontario Early Years Centre's lending van, which will visit the playgroup every second Wednesday. Mary Jane McLaughlin of Early Years explained that the Centre will bring children's toys, equipment, and parent resources that will be available, free of charge, for parents to borrow. Since parents can find it hard to get to a library and find critically needed information,

Early Years also has a program of book lending, which works exactly like a library and covers a wide range of topics of interest to parents of toddlers.

The Centre will also offer, on each visit to the playgroup, a toy lending library.
Toys are catalogued by number of pieces for parents' convenience, to help them choose toys which are suitable to their individual child's preferences (and their parent's patience!).

For more information on the playgroups, including exact locations and times, call Sharon Partridge at 613-478-1211, extension 293.

Ontario Early Years Centre,

There is a lot of goodness in the world" Community pulls together in marvellous way to help Danielle

by Bill Freeman
Norwood -

There is a lot of goodness in the world," says Danielle McBride, a budding young author with a million-dollar smile, was reknowned on the truly extraordinary community effort is made her life with her little bit more able. Thanks to the singular commitment of the Norwood Lions Club and the invaluable assistance of George Anderson, founder of Habitat for Humanity, and a host of other volunteers (many quite anonymous), Danielle now has a liberating space of her own attached to her family's home where she can enjoy a bit of solace, pursue her dream of writing and keep her correspondence with literary e-mails like Robert Munsch. The independence that she has gained back is incredible, says her mother Gail. "It has been wonderful," she is still not at the point of finding out new things and why it's so wonderful. "We're still in that state of wonder."

That the year-long effort alone is to transform a garage attached to the house into a large, airy, fully accessible living space for the 18-year-old Norwood High student. Even though she had been designed to accommodate Danielle's special needs in a large washroom, a special shower space, a sink that caters to her left-handedness, a computer station and a desk that opens and locks automatically allowing her to move inside and outside as she wishes. Sliding doors (and a slider) in the apartment to the house so she can move in and out easily and safely. Her own telephone and a fax machine also acts as an intercom to contact her parents, a satellite receiver and internet access to enhance the independent lifestyle the young adult so richly deserves.

But making it all happen was not that easy for Gail and her husband Jim who have, for the past nine years been looking for a place that would allow them to accommodate their gifted but wheelchair-bound daughter. They had been living in an accessible town house in Peterborough so were aware of some of the special needs that would best suit their daughter and their large family of seven.

They decided to buy a house with the thought of making necessary renovations.

The house they found north of Norwood "was ideal for us and Danielle," Gail says. It had a large kitchen, big living room and an attached garage they knew could be converted. It was also on flat property. Perfect for Danielle who loves to "bomb" up and down the drive with her brothers.

"We thought we could renovate this some day but unfortunately we did not have the money to do this."

So the Manns started doing research into programs that help disabled and low income families make home renovations. They thought they had found exactly what they needed in the Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program (RAP) which provides funding for just the sort of home renovations the Manns had in mind.

But they were turned down, told that their total family income of $37,000 was too high and should be reduced if their family situation changed. In the meantime Gail, an educational assistant, had enrolled full-time in Trent University's Concurrent Education program. With Gail no longer having an income because she was a student the Manns met the RAP income qualifications but were turned down again because her student loans made their debt ratio too high.

"It was just so frustrating. There is no grey area. Everything was black and white," Gail says. "Just because you're buying a home or own a home doesn't mean you have all this extra money to help (someone) live the quality of life, with no barriers, everyone is living."

But Gail is persistent and shares her daughter's optimistic disposition. She had a chat with Barb Holme, Family Services Coordinator at Five Counties Children's Hospital where Danielle has been a client since she was three. Ms. Holme told Gail to get all her letters together and "started to come on board."

Ms. Holme was already in the process of getting funding from the Sunshine Dreams for Kids program and the President's Choice Children's Charity Wish Foundation, both of whom are part of Danielle's story now.

Then there was the appearance of "this wonderful man" -- George Anderson -- at Five Counties. Mr. Anderson, friend of American president Jimmy Carter, minister, theologian, is also the great-grandfather of a boy with multiple challenges and spoke at Five Counties and acknowledged that even the Habitat program he founded could not help people who owned their own homes.

Ms. Holme told Mr. Anderson about the Manns. He and his friend Bill Fritz of Timothy Eaton Memorial Church in Toronto came out visit their family last October.

"We sat around as a family with him and some of his family members and he said: 'it's going to happen. It's meant to happen. It's going to.'" Mr. Anderson takes up the story. He says the people at Five Counties told him of a girl in Norwood who "has a real desire for freedom." So he agreed to the visit, making no promises, and "fell in love with Danielle right from the start."

Danielle McBride

Mr. Anderson said he asked the Manns if they were people of faith; because the people he was going to appeal to would be members of the faith community.

"From then on it was a go."

Meanwhile, Mr. Anderson, realizing he needed a contact in the community, had met Lions Club member Earl Oliver and was asked to speak to the local club. They came on board and have "been a superb partner."

"Within a week money started to come in from George's community," Gail says. "It has absolutely nothing to do with Habitat (and) we have no involvement with the money or who gave what."

"A lot of people came together, often behind the scenes. We have absolutely no idea who was involved at George's end and how they contributed. He is very persuasive, energetic -- an incredible person."

One of the groups that did make a contribution was the Eagles Club of Port Charlotte, Florida. Similar to the Lions, this particular club came on board because Mr. Anderson's son is a member. Along with their $1300, they also sent Danielle a t-shirt with all the member's signatures.

"It crosses borders," says Mr. Anderson. "People see the need (and) they'll respond."

Dee's team: Danielle McBride and her family made number of new friends over the last year during an extraordinary project that saw the conversion of garage at her home into wonderful new living quarters for the 18-year-old budding author. The Norwood Lions Club were at the heart of the project along with George Anderson, the founder of Habitat for Humanity Canada. Danielle and her family hosted a thank-you BBQ and open house Sunday afternoon and paid tribute to the Lions, Mr. Anderson and everyone else who has supported the project. Joining "Dee" in the photo are Lions Peter Oord, Peter Young, Earl Oliver, Mr. Anderson, Lion Dan Flint and Danielle's parents Gail and Jim.

"The Manns have been wonderful to work with. Danielle is just a dream and she is going to be a great author one day. I like small towns, too. They can see and come and meet the people."

One of Mr. Anderson's fundraising initiatives was the creation of "memory stones" inspired by Joshua IV "to remind people of good things (and that) the Creator is always here."

Yellow fish road: Members of the Norwood Lions Young Conservation Club were out in force Wednesday afternoon marking storm drains with distinctive "Yellow Fish Road" symbols. The symbols remind residents that all materials dumped down drains are usually not treated and that means pollutants flow in area watercourses killing aquatic life. The Norwood program also received support from the Ontario Conservation Foundation and Trout Unlimited Canada. Across Canada over 60,000 young people have participated in the storm drain marking program a over 100,000 drains have been designated. As well painting the symbols on village storm drains, Y members went door-to-door delivering distressing door-hangings that provided more information on program. The Curtain Comes Down—The Fall Feast for the Ears wrapped up at the Westben Barn last Sunday with a delightful performance by the Cantabile Women's Choir of Kingston, Mark Sirett conducting. The Cantabile Choir has won numerous provincial and national awards and Sirett won the International Jury Award for imaginative programming at the 2002 Cork International Choral Festival in Ireland. On Friday night (Sept. 26th), pianist William O'Meara (inset) offered an insight into the experience of watching silent films as he did a superb job as accompanist for "Not-so-Silent Screen" presentation of Charlie Chaplin's "The Circus." Westben finished the September concert schedule with Volunteer Appreciation reception following the Cantabile Women's Choir concert Sunday afternoon. photo/Rolly Ethier

Rebels drop one-goal verdict in season start

North Frontenac—The defending Empire League champion Campbellford Rebels launched the 2003-04 junior C season with a new look but on the wrong foot Sunday afternoon, dropping a 3-2 decision to the North Frontenac Flyers.

In retrospect, General Manager Jim Peeling said the coaching staff would be working on improved marksmanship and an improved offense but also needs to implement a tougher defence.

"All three North Frontenac goals were scored from the lip of the crease and all on rebounds after our goalie (Erik See) made the first stop," complained Peeling.

The Fronts took the early lead with the only goal of the first period when Matt Dixon converted Mike Corrigan's rebound. But the Rebels battled back for the equalizer midway through the second period on a partial breakaway by Mike Banks, who fired a 30-footer past goalie Morgan Bailey on his low stick side.

Steve D'Malko and Gavin Sheridan were the other North Frontenac marksmen while Justin Loucks scored for the Rebels with a 10-foot backhand through a lot of traffic in front of the net.

New Uniforms

The "new look" for the Rebels pertains to new uniforms, with the team switching from their traditional San Jose Shark aqua and white to the red, black and white of the New Jersey Devils. Gone also is the old logo.

Peeling is pleased to welcome the Campbellford Canadian Tire outlet, under GM Steve McCarthy, as a major sponsor of the Rebels this year.

Rebels are still carrying three goalies, with Geoff Niblett and Gord Neave on the roster in addition to Erik See. Coaches Doug Hart, Dave Stewart and Dave Bowman have appointed Gordie Nelson and Jamie McComb as co-captains.

Rebels open their home season Saturday night (Oct. 4th) at 7:30 with the Flyers paying a return visit. The Campbellford skaters then travel to Picton to face the Pirates next Thursday night (Oct. 9th).

Rebels will pick a winner for their ATV during a regularly scheduled Empire League game in Warkworth Oct. 18th. Tickets are still available from any member of the Rebel executive or can be purchased at the Canadian Tire outlet, the liquor store or at the Norwood Fair.

The "New Look" Rebels—The Campbellford Rebels will go to battle in the junior C wars this season with a new look and a new major sponsor. Co-captains Gordie Nelson (left) and Jamie McComb model their new uniforms, patterned in the style of the New Jersey Devils, while Steve McCarthy of the Campbellford Canadian Tire outlet, who has taken on a team sponsorship role, looks on approvingly. Rebels, featuring many of last year's holdovers and several promising rookies, make their home debut Saturday night against the North Frontenac Flyers. photo/Rolly Ethier

Lions roar with kindness

the project a year ago taking off the garage door, covering it and raising the floor to house level. It took off from there.

It is hard to overstate the importance of the new space for Danielle. Her mother says Danielle has lost a lot of her independence over the past five years.

"The previous situation did not allow her to work on any skills that she didn't have before she came here. Things just sort of went backwards. It was frustrating and not very nice at all."

There are dry-wall and chips in the wall from Danielle's wheelchair as she negotiated the "maze" to get into her old bedroom. Often she would get stuck in the hall or would be left outside because she couldn't get in the door. The ramp they did build was not as safe as it could be and now that Danielle has moved into a larger, heavier adult wheelchair, the need was even greater still.

"This calms your life down," Gail says.

"It is very, very geared to her. It's not just that it's accessible. It's accessible for her."

It is also "much less stressful mentally and physically."

It's Danielle's space now, Gail adds, and her younger brothers are fore more respectful of her privacy. They think the whole thing "is pretty cool."

"It's been wonderful," Danielle agrees. "I'm out there all the time."

Danielle also had a big say in the interior decorating. "It's pretty much all my touch. I'm hoping to elaborate."

"Showers are like heaven," she says, "and it is easier for my parents, too. I don't have to take a lot of these extra steps to do such a simple thing. I can make choices and decisions now and have a chance to make my own schedule now."

"George is incredible. He didn't know me we were just a family from Norwood. It is just incredible that he would do something so wonderful. So many strangers have become my friends. I have learned that there is a lot of goodness in the world."

"It is nice to know that even if they don't know me they had faith in me and my dream of achieving my goal. I have freedom, privacy, peace and quiet and independence and the ability to try and do things."

"(Without George and Barb) I have the feeling I'd still be sending letters," Gail says. "I'm sure there are families out there in our situation who do not have the energy to do what we've done; to keep trying and plugging to find some program or organization to help."

She would like to stay on top of the issue, either starting her own organization or working to change the criteria of some of the programs that are designed to help but are too restrictive.

Alien visitor returned to Ottawa museum

A slice of the country's largest meteorite, which has been on display here this summer, was sent back to Ottawa last weekend.

The sample, inscribed with the location of its find right near Madoc, weighs 5 pounds and 4 ounces. It is part of the single piece that fell in the 1800s, a model of which was displayed at the Cultural Centre throughout the summer. The sample and model were on loan from Dr. Richard Herd, curator of the National Meteorite Collection, part of the Geological Survey of Canada and the Department of Natural Resources. The Madoc meteorite, the largest to fall in Canada, was acquired by a Dr. Logan in the 1800s and formed the beginning of the present-day collection. Dr. Herd visited Madoc earlier this summer and answered questions about meteorites. He also identified a few rocks which were, to their owners' delight, terrestrial. Some, though, were clearly out of place and he identified them. I do not know how it got there with a chuckle.

OPP says syringe email is a hoax

The Ontario Provincial Police would like to assure the public that a report being circulated via the Internet concerning syringes being affixed to gas pumps is false and unfounded.

There have been no reports of such incidents received by the OPP. A report such as that would be taken very seriously and investigated fully. The OPP would take the appropriate action to ensure community safety and would issue an immediate warning.

The hoax is currently being attributed to an individual who claims to be a Captain Abraham Sands of the Ontario Provincial Police Department. The OPP does not employ anyone by that name. As well, the OPP does not have a rank of 'captain', and the OPP is a Service, not a Department.

Similar email hoaxes have been circulated for a number of years using the names of various police agencies and personnel.

The OPP is asking for the public's assistance in stopping the spread of this email hoax.

Please visit their website at www.opp.ca.

YFC Committee sets goal and plans reception at C

Local YFC Steering Committee has set a goal of raising 1/4 of a million dollars in pledges (minimum $50,000 per year over 5 years) toward the costs of hiring a full time Campus Life Worker. The worker would serve in partnership with Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, the community and local churches.

YFC has already had a solid working relationship with Centre Hastings through its assembly programs over the years and community sponsored events that teens have been attending.

Grant Montgomery, Principal at Centre Hastings, welcomes this partnership. "CHSS has a number of community partnerships. The addition of a Campus Life Worker to the school would strengthen the support services that our school offers to our students and would expand our ongoing partnership with YFC. Students would be able to access the programs of the Campus Life Worker on a voluntary basis."

Darren McFarlane, Vice Principal at CHSS, commented on the involvement of the Campus Life Worker at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute in Picton where Mr. McFarlane was a staff member last year. "The counselor at PEI exemplified positive values through his daily leadership and involvement in the school, an asset that served to further enhance the school's environment and general atmosphere." PEI has been partnering with the Campus Life worker for the past 5 years.

The Centre Hastings Committee Chairperson, Karen Yarrow was a former student at CHSS. She is now a lawyer serving in the community and has teens herself who attend the school. She and the other 4 committee members have been working diligently at laying a foundation to provide the financial partnership project to pro urday Novem they are spon Family of Frie at CHSS froi pm. It will fe smorgasbord presentation

The committee is active right now approaching all 22 area churches whose teens feed into the high school. This would include churches in Madoc, Marmora, Tweed, Springbrook, Bannockburn and other communities in between. The goal is to have at least 50% of the budget underwritten by churches. The rest of the support is from individuals, businesses and events.

Once all the support pledges are completed (deadline is the end of November 2003), the search for the new worker begins. The Principal of the school along with the local steering committee are part of the hiring process. The goal is to have the worker start by May 2004.

Nationwide holiday traffic blitz

OPP officers across the province will be joining with police services across Canada to bring road safety to the forefront this holiday Thanksgiving weekend. This national law enforcement initiative called Operation Impact has been so successful it has grown from a one-day blitz to include the entire Thanksgiving weekend, from Friday, October 10th through to Monday, October 13th.

Last year in Ontario over 500 people lost their lives and more than 22,000 were injured in traffic accidents. Senseless injuries and tragic loss of life have a profound impact on thousands of families. The Ontario Provincial Police wants to do something about this very serious problem. Officers will be out across the province targeting impaired driving, ensuring seatbelt use and at-risk road users such as pedestrians, cyclists, and motorcyclists.

ing on making Canada's roads safer, is a very exciting prospect," said Maurice Pilon, Deputy Commissioner, Ontario Provincial Police. "Our goal is to save lives and prevent needless injuries from occurring." "Our message is clear," said Supt. Bob Goodall, Commander, Field and Traffic Services. "Drinking and driving kills, understand the dangers of the road and buckle up. The OPP needs your help to make Operation Impact a success and stop the tragic loss of lives on our roads."

In the last 12 years, the officers involved in this initiative have saved many lives and helped to prevent many crashes by removing the drinking driver from the roads and ensuring everyone buckles up. The OPP, through their participation in Operation Impact, are out to change the way drivers think about safe driving.

Let's all do our part to ensure everyone has a safe and enjoyable Thanksgiving Weekend.

Ontario Agriculture Week

Ontario's farmers are known for their efficient production of safe, nutritious food, and each year the Provincial Government invites everyone to honour that fact by celebrating Ontario Agriculture Week.

When Bert Johnson was the MPP for Perth-Middlesex he put forth a Private Members' Bill which, when passed by the Legislature, declared the week leading up to Thanksgiving as Ontario Agriculture Week.

Mr. Johnson was honoured at Queen's Park Oct. 7th as the leaders of Ontario's agriculture organizations met to mark the beginning of Ontario Agriculture Week 2003. Ontario Federation of Agriculture President

Ron Bonnett said Mr. Johnson's initiative in 1998 has led to an annual province-wide celebration of the work done by Ontario's farmers.

In previous years, the celebration has taken place on the grounds at Queen's Park, and for the past two years at Nathan Phillips Square (City Hall) in Toronto. OFA and a number of commodity organizations work together to plan the celebration that includes entertainment, food, and the distribution of thousands of recipes.

This year's provincial celebration will unfold at the Thanksgiving-Monday football game between the Ottawa Renegades and the Toronto Argonauts in Ottawa.

Organizers plan to promote agriculture using public service announcements, a giant video screen, a cannon that will shoot farm organization t-shirts into the crowd of more than 25,000 fans, and a year-round display sign that says: "If you ate today, thank a farmer!"

Along with the provincial event, a number of local Federations of Agriculture have planned special events that include farm tours and other activities for the sixth annual Ontario Agriculture Week celebration. Agriculture in Ontario is 50,000 farm families producing more than 200 different commodities and adding almost $30 billion to the provincial economy yearly.

An ordinary guy with a passion for politics

By Rolly Ethier
Brighton—He's just a diminutive, average-looking guy with a common sense approach. Maybe that's a key factor in his voter appeal.

In fact, Lou Rinaldi is the kind of guy Mike Harris might have recruited for his Common Sense Revolution in 1995 had his political allegiance been just a shade different (blue instead of red).

Rinaldi doesn't pretend to be a great orator, or the best-dressed politician around, but, in his every-day language, he gets his points across quite effectively just the same.

Introduced at his victory celebration after the polls had declared him the winner over Conservative incumbent Dr. Doug Galt, campaign manager Darlene Warner referred to Lou as the first ever Liberal in Northumberland history to defeat a Tory cabinet minister. Rinaldi's arm went up in a victory salute as hundreds of his supporters cheered loudly and chanted his name at Legion Hall election headquarters.

Ironically, it was the same hall that Dr. Galt had celebrated his re-election victory in 1999 after an uncomfortably close victory over Liberal candidate Carolyn Campbell.

"I'm not sure all of this is happening," commented Rinaldi. "All I can think of now is that I have to attend a Rotary Club meeting tomorrow morning at 7. But I think I'll make it. I'm an early riser."

He said he was happy to have his mother and father on hand from Toronto, and the rest of his big Italian-Canadian family there to savour the moment. He said he was fortunate to have an understanding family as they picked up the business slack for him while "I was out there playing politics."

A Tough Decision

"I have to express my gratitude to all my supporters. It was a tough decision in having to decide whether to stay on as Mayor of the new Municipality of Brighton or accept the opportunity to jump into provincial politics.

I enjoyed my years as Mayor

but we need to move on now in a bigger home—all of Northumberland.

"I means being appointed to represent a growing jurisdiction" from about 10,000

100,000 in just one day," mused Rinaldi. "But I should be able to handle it. After all I raised four kids with just a little help from my wife Diane."

He gave a lot of the credit for success in his first bid for a provincial seat to Diane Warner, his campaign manager, who was previously an assistant for MP Joe Fawcett.

"She (Darlene) was the from day one. She believed in what I believed in. It was amazing to see all of come together. It was even more amazing with the calibre of people who got behind me in this campaign."

The new Northumberland MPP promised to work hardest to achieve the best possible results for the region.

Values Health Care

"People were fed up with tax cuts and incentives," charged. "Nobody wants pay taxes but people generally understand they get nothing for nothing. People value their health care system and Ontario truly needs to deliver good public health care."

He said the major issues existing in Northumberland are much the same as the rest of Ontario, health care topping the list.

Will the impassioned lawyer be able to make much of a difference in Northumberland, such as ending downloading on municipalities like Trent Hills? Only time will tell.

Co-operative approach key to municipal success

Increased police response lauded

By Bill Freeman

Asphodel-Norwood - Township Councillors lauded the improved relationship which has developed between the OPP and municipality.

"Our municipality seems to be receiving a lot more timely and preventative response than ever before and I'm quite pleased to see this," Councillor Joe Crowley said Monday night during a presentation by Peterborough County OPP Inspector Bill Flindall and Staff Sergeant Gary Collins.

Police Services Board Chair Rod Manley added that the "excellent co-operation we receive" has made his job a lot easier.

Mr. Manley says the positive dialogue that has developed will mean increased progress in dealing with evolving issues that are of concern in the township.

Insp. Flindall pointed to Sergeant Collins as the "guy who gets things done."

He says the OPP will continue to focus on its "primary interests" of police visibility, accessibility and traffic.

Officers are getting "out of their cars and do go out on foot," he said. "Effective cops are those who are on the streets talking to people."

That philosophy is "very strictly" adhered to, he adds. "I feel very assured that the level of policing being provided is of the highest standard. I feel very secure that our officers can say we are doing exactly what your Council, your municipality and community has asked for."

Sergeant Collins gave Councillors a brief overview of what an officer would do on a regular night shift - from briefing and assignments to special problems appearing in court.

"The days of getting in a police car with lunch being you and driving off for 10 hours are over," Sgt. Collins said.

A simple call could last a little as 30 minutes but an officer might be tied up for six hours for a domestic violence report. Officers have to be cognizant of up-to-date law and getting the OPP helicopter to fly over a predicted drug field requires 50 page warrants.

Court appearances have gone from "20 minutes in front of a judge to a whole day process. The system has changed dramatically."

"If you want to see the end result of policing," said, "spend a day in court. There (you would see) a year-old officer with knees knocking and everybody is in a run at them. And they're just people like everyone else."

Officers often get beaten up, run over, spat and hollered at and "pay the ultimate price."

Sgt. Collins said that under Insp. Flindall's leadership "we are getting the job done."

If there is a problem "I get it fixed straight," he said. Insp. Flindall agreed that things had changed dramatically.

"Police officers are under public scrutiny and appreciate

With their first victory, Rebels will now welcome Rompin' Ron to the arena

By Rolly Ethier

Campbellford—It's amazing the difference one week has made for the fortunes of the Campbellford Rebels.

After losing their Empire League Junior C opener on the road, 3-2 to the North Frontenac Flyers, the Rebels bounced back last Saturday night at home with a much-improved performance to clip the same Flyers 6-4.

Then, adding to the enthusiasm, the Rebels learned that rock 'n' roll legend Rompin' Ronnie Hawkins will be on hand Saturday night (Oct. 11th) at the arena to make the ceremonial opening faceoff at 7:30.

Hawkins isn't the only reason to expect a big crowd. Rebels will be squaring off against the Georgian Ice, last year's all-Ontario finalists.

Last Saturday's game produced the best crowd in recent memory to see the league opener and the Rebels, looking good in their new uniforms, didn't disappoint the faithful.

General Manager Jim Peeling has reminded that the Rebels are still "the best bang for your buck in town," and the action bore out his enthusiasm.

It was a scoreless first period with the Flyers weathering the Rebel onslaught thanks to the efforts of netminder Morgan Bailey. Rebel goalie Erik See was very steady as well.

Loucks Connects

In period two, the Rebels finally solved Bailey when off a Justin Pollock foray, winger Justin Loucks dinked in a rebound. With

8:42 in the middle session, Jamie Bowman tapped in a two-footer as Bailey couldn't find the puck after denying

Dan Petherick's wraparound attempt.

See yielded the Flyers first marker to Jim Marquardt after two bang-bang saves as the Rebel defence failed to tie up the opposition. Rebels responded with a forechecking surge that bottled the Flyers up and leftwinger Mike Banks took advantage to up the margin to 3-1 with a smart deke on Bailey's doorstep.

Early in the final frame, centre Philip Darrington found the range—a 10-foot backhand as linemate Ross MacDonald occupied a pair of defenders. Flyers' best forward, Matt Dixon, cashed in his second with a slick move to fool See, making for an interesting finish.

Geordie Nelson walked in alone to outduel Bailey with a snappy ice skimmer from 20-feet and again MacDonald was instrumental on the play. Loucks added an empty netter before goalie Erik See gave the Flyers' Todd Serrage an early Christmas present.

Ice Chips: In the hopes of boosting attendance, the Rebels have come up with another draw. The first to qualify for a chance of becoming the season grand prize winner of $500 was Eunice Stapley... At a cost of a twonie, there'll be qualifiers selected in a draw at all 17 home games, which means the eventual season winner will have a one in 17 chance of carting off the $500 prize... Hawkins and recording industry innovator Jim West will be inducted into the Canadian Music Industry Hall of Fame at the Canadian Music Industry Awards March 4, 2004 at the Westin Harbour Castle... "It's the greatest honour that can ever happen," Hawkins said when told of his Hall of Fame induction. "This'll make my grandkids think I must have been a somebody." Hawkins was definitely a somebody. Made famous by his version of 'Mary Lou' in 1959, Hawkins helped tear down the Berlin Wall in 1992 playing with The Band, performed at Bill Clinton's 1992 inaugural party and has also appeared on television and in films.

Impaired Driving

OPP officers clocked an eastbound 1991 Buick Regal at 150 kms near the Eagleson Road, Cobourg. Although the officer activated the siren, the vehicle failed to stop. It was revealed later that the car was stolen from the Stoney Creek area. The driver, Richard Claus, 51, of Hamilton, was arrested and charged with a number of offences, including being impaired and driving under suspension.

Fall & Winter 2003 HOME IMPROVEMENT

Get a head start on preparing your home for the winter

(NC)—While it may seem like Jack Frost won't be making an appearance for quite a while, the Canadian Oil Heat Association (COHA) recommends that homeowners get a head start preparing their homes and plan for ways to save money and energy this winter.

"We really encourage homeowners to start preparing for the winter months well in advance, which includes turning on their furnace to ensure it is working before the temperatures drop," says COHA president and CEO John Butt. "If you know in the early fall that your furnace needs to be upgraded or replaced, arrangements can be made before the busy season starts."

COHA has these additional winter preparation tips for homeowners:

- Schedule a cleaning and tune-up by a qualified technician BEFORE the snow starts to fly.

- In addition to professional inspections, homeowners should examine the heating system occasionally for signs of deterioration.

- Keep the area around your furnace free from dust, lint, rags, paint and other materials.

- Make sure your warm-air outlets and cold-air returns aren't covered by carpets or blocked by debris.

- Get your ducts cleaned to improve indoor air quality and to keep your heating system working properly.

For homeowners looking to save energy this winter, COHA has these suggestions:

- Look for leaks around doors and windows.

- Install a programmable thermostat. You can cut over 10 per cent from your energy bills by just five degrees at night.

- Ensure that all insulation is in place and covers your entire attic.

- Install storm windows.

- Make sure air filters are cleaned/replaced; this ensures maximum efficiency and a system that works to its potential.

Painting woodwork – it's all about preparation

(NC)—To get the best finish on your woodwork, it's important that it's prepared properly before you pull out the paintbrush. Many people are too eager to rush through the preparation stage to get the painting, but the best job comes from careful preparation.

The experts offer the following tips to clean, patch sand your woodwork:

- Wash the woodwork with Trisodium Phosphate (TSP) solution or a phosphate-free substitute and rinse thoroughly.

- Scrape away any peeling or loose paint. If your woodwork is badly chipped, probably best to remove old finish entirely by sanding or stripping it.

- Use a putty knife to fill some latex wood patch or packing compound into nail holes, dents, or other blemishes. Colored wood patch material can also be used. Let the putty dry thoroughly.

- Sand the surfaces with 150-grit sandpaper until they are smooth to the touch. Wipe the woodwork with a tack cloth to remove dust particles before priming and painting.

- Wear protective gloves and safety gear when using harsh cleaners and chemicals.

Heat guns are a great way to remove old paint, varnish, and other finishes. They are especially good at taking off multiple layers of paint all at once. As you use the heat gun, the paint softens and bubbles up, making it easy to remove with a metal scraper.

Point the nozzle of the heat gun at the work surface, keeping it about two inches away. Move the gun back and forth across the surface until the paint begins to bubble and blister. Stop if the finish begins to smoke.

Hold the putty knife at a 30-degree angle and use it like a plow to push the paint away. Avoid gouging the wood. Dump the softened paint sludge into an old coffee can as you work.

Go back over detailed areas with the heat gun, using a contoured scraper to get into narrow crevices. Special paint scrapers with angled blades work better than most ordinary scrapers.

Use the scraper to remove any stubborn flecks that remain. When the paint is all gone, wash the surface with denatured alcohol or mineral spirits.

Masking Wood Trim

Masking is a great way to paint adjacent surfaces, like where door trim of one color meets wallboard of another. Use pre-gummed masking paper or wide masking tape to protect anything you don't want splattered or painted over. Mask the trim and you can paint the wallboard right up to the edge of the trim. Reverse the process and you can paint the trim to within a hair of the wallboard. When you're finished, carefully remove the tape and presto – a perfect paint job.

Use pre-gummed paper or wide masking tape to protect wood moldings from paint splatters. Leave the outside edge of the masking tape loose. After applying the tape, run the tip of a putty knife along the inside edge of the tape to seal against seeping paint. You should remove the masking materials as soon as the paint is too dry to run.

By following these few simple steps to prepare your woodwork, you can have a professional looking paint job every time with the satisfaction of doing it yourself.

Painting inside and out: Save time and money by choosing higher-grade paints

(NC)—For outside work, Canadians generally pay a lot of attention to the quality of their exterior paint. An outdoor coating is required to last as long as possible and to withstand constant exposure to our harsh weather conditions. Making the paint job last as long as possible is an important cost-saving measure - and the same reasoning should apply to interior paint.

Sometimes we cut corners on the coatings we choose for family rooms or living rooms, simply because wear-and-tear inside is at a minimum, and we think that repainting is a relatively simple job. It's not though. Disrupting rooms for repainting, having to protect the carpets or move furniture, is still a major undertaking. The less you have to do it the better. In fact, today's higher-grade interior paints are so much more durable, your beautiful paint results can now last a lot longer.

Did you know that to get optimum beauty, durability, and richness of colour, the more pigment and "binder solids" there are in the paint, the better? According to Dominique Pépin, Senior Brand Manager at a paint manufacturer: "higher quality latex paints typically contain 35 to 45 percent volume solids. This compares to 25 to 30 percent in ordinary-grade latex paint."

How it works:
"What you are looking for on your walls, is maximum thickness once it is dry," Pépin says. "Therefore, it's important that you look for a higher-grade paint that con-

So you're planning to renovate?

(NC)—There are as many reasons to renovate as there are different householders: entrepreneurial types may want to buy an older home and renovate it to meet their needs; "empty-nester" couples are looking for a smaller home with the amenities of a mature neighbourhood; and first-time buyers may simply be looking for a more affordable home and are willing to renovate the property to their liking.

Statistics indicate that home renovations are on the rise for both new and existing homeowners. So if you've got plans to make some changes around your home, here are a few things to keep in mind:

- Be sure that your renovation will actually increase the value of your home. Renovating a kitchen or bathroom tends to add to the value of your home, while altering the floorplan (for example, reducing the number of bedrooms) could decrease its value.
- Make sure that what you financially put into the renovation, you get back in resale value.
- Remember to research the products you want in a renovation so you can request them from your contractor.
- Use only a reputable contractor who can provide references and can show proof he or she has liability insurance.

• Protect yourself by requesting a written contract and time schedule from your contractor.

• Familiarize yourself with construction holdback legislation in your area.

• Inspect the work at each stage of completion and before you make your final payment.

• Prepare yourself, and your family, for the disruption that often accompanies renovation.

Above all, you should make sure that you have the proper financial resources to achieve your goals. Many banks will let you borrow additional amounts against your existing mortgage. For many homeowners, refinancing is the easiest, most convenient way of obtaining new funds for renovation.

• Better hiding: These new paints also offer high viscosity and ultra hiding qualities mask surface imperfections.

Fall & Winter 2003 HOME IMPROVEMENT

Organize your closet with this flexible system

How many times have you walked into your closet and said: "I've got to do something about this closet." You're not alone. When experts conducted a new home buyer survey, more than half the respondents said they were dissatisfied with the closet space provided.

Biggest problem area - the master bedroom. Common complaints:

- Needs more shelves and bins
- More hanging space needed
- Lack of a shoe rack

It's amazing just how much even reach-in closets can hold once you discover the secret - organization. Clothes can be hung so that they move freely and don't crease; shoes can be neatly racked; bins and drawer accessories can provide storage for sweaters and accessories.

The answer - an integrated storage system combining shelves and bins of various types and sizes that can be custom-designed to meet your requirements. Take a look at the ideas you'll find and you'll see how these can be fitted into new homes or custom-designed to fit into existing closet spaces.

As the needs of the household change, the flexibility this type of installation provides can handle the new demands. For example, an installation originally designed for small children, that places their clothing, toys and other necessities within easy reach, can easily be reconfigured with the hanging space as the youngsters move into the teens.

It's a whole new world of space efficiency.

Bathroom renovations on a budget

According to the Canadian Home Builders Association home renovations are the most popular type of home improvement. With the recent economy, consumers have chosen to invest in their own homes rather than buying new. The bathroom continues to be one of the key rooms for renovation to increase comfort and curb appeal.

Costs may reach up to $20-30,000 for a major structural renovation including big items like in-floor heating. So how do you give the bathroom a new look without a small fortune?

Strauss of a plumbing business in Waterloo, Ontario, says that you can get a new look for your bathroom for as little as $1,000. "For that amount," he explains, you can expect to get a new sink, toilet and faucet. "This is also a great quick fix for homeowners who want to sell their house and need to update the bathroom."

On the other hand, Strauss says for a budget of about $5,000, you can get a new soaker tub, shower with body sprays, sink, faucet and toilet within existing plumbing and with new flooring and lighting.

Current trends

In recent years Strauss has seen an increased demand for slide bar hand showers and faucets, such as a vertical spa with swivel heads that let you direct water where you want it.

Comments considering the overall look you are after and choosing an appropriate finish. "For example if a customer wants to create an old-world style, I might recommend a wrought iron finish to complete the look."

Be sure that you stick to your budget, Strauss recommends that you set priorities. "Are you sure that you want a whirlpool tub or a steam shower? Or would you rather have a walk-in closet?" He says that customers should sit down with their renovator and set out a plan. "They have a true understanding of the current trends and what their budget will allow them to do."

Painting a ceiling made simple —Anyone who has painted a ceiling understands that it's a frustrating task. However, with the right product selection and a little "magic," painting a ceiling can be simple and easy. A fresh coat of paint on the ceiling helps set the tone for the room and is essential in creating a crisp, clean look." Murray Noble, director of marketing for a paint company, says, "The ceiling should be the first step when painting a room and with the right product this job can be easier than people think. A primer which blocks stains and bonds to any surface.

4. Cut in the ceiling with a brush and paint the edge of the ceiling along the walls. Paint out about 2 to 3 inches onto the ceiling. This will provide an area to overlap with the roller.

5. The easiest way to paint a ceiling is with a roller and an extension handle (to avoid standing on a ladder). Start in the corner of the room and work your way across the narrowest dimension of the room with long even strokes. Continue back and forth across the room until you are finished.

of the greatest frustration when painting a ceiling is determining where you applied paint. To help solve this problem, a new primer was developed. This primer is specifically formulated for ceilings and rolls off when it's wet and dries to a brilliant white in less than an hour, taking the work out of painting over white. This eliminates the problem of missed coats and the need to touch-up or repaint the ceiling.

In addition to proper painting technique, Noble also recommends these basic steps:

Remove all window coverings, fixtures and place them in the centre of the room. Cover these and any exposed floor areas with drop sheets.

Inspect the ceiling for cracks and repair with filler. Sand down filler and dust.

Apply primer to any spots and stains that appear on the ceiling.

There are many different types of primer, you can choose by choosing a (NC)—It seems that we are all looking for ways to save money, particularly when it comes to matters of the home. What most people don't realize, however, is that their home's heating system has the biggest impact on their pocketbook.

According to Paul Green, there are many ways to maximize your furnace's efficiency:

Consider the source. When heating your home, natural gas is commonly considered the best fuel alternative. And, according to Natural Resources Canada, most homes in the country use natural gas as a primary source of heat.

If you are considering converting from your current fuel source to a natural gas heating system, you can save up to 48 per cent over electric, and more than 41 per cent over conventional oil.

Shop around. If you are in the market for a new furnace, consider choosing a mid- or high-efficiency furnace, which will reduce your heating costs by burning less fossil fuel. In fact, converting to these systems is becoming more common as many homeowners are beginning to realize the savings they can enjoy on their annual home heating costs and the positive impact they can have on the environment.

Up in smoke. If you are not aware of your furnace's Annual Fuel Utilization Efficiency (AFUE) rating, your hard earned money could be literally disappearing up your chimney. The AFUE number compares the percentage of heat delivered to the home to the amount that is lost. High-efficiency furnaces typically deliver 90 per cent AFUE or more. Not surprisingly, older, conventional furnaces found in many Canadian homes allow more than 40 per cent of heated air to be lost up the chimney.

A more efficient system saves you money every time you heat your home and these savings increase as fuel prices increase over the life of your home heating system.

No room for a cellar?

(NC)—Try these useful tips for storing wine around the house.

Provided your bottles are stored on their side in a cool, dark place, the wine will be fine. With a little imagination and the right information, all kinds of places can be turned into useful wine storage.

Where to Store Wine
Beneath a staircase, a storage closet, or even a cupboard can be suitable places to set up simple wooden wine racks. "A little insulation and a wet sponge will help keep the wine at a constant temperature with the essential humidity it needs," says Kevin LeFort, Fine Wine Specialist.

What Wine to Store

Depending on the cellar size, 50 to 100 bottles is ideal. "If you concentrate on wines within the $10 to $20 range, you'll have something to satisfy everyone's palate," LeFort says. It is ideal to have a balanced cellar with different styles of wines from different regions throughout the world. However, your cellar should reflect your personal drinking habits. If you drink mostly red wines, then let your cellar reflect this as well.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Campbellford is stagnating, changes needed to address issues

Dear Editor:

I am responding to a letter written by Bob Eley. My congratulations to the writer because I am convinced he is right in nearly everything he said. My only disagreement is regarding a proposed referendum on the Suspension Bridge.

I agree that the suspension bridge should not have been built in the first place but it is now under construction and is an accepted SuperBuild project where government funding is available. It certainly would not have been on my project priority list but there is no way back now. Perhaps, if the town goes the right way in future development the suspension bridge could be one of the links falling in place. Otherwise the bridge would be Campbellford's mistake of the century.

I have lived in Trent Hills for eight years and tried to get some developments under way without success. But this was probably in big part my own fault. Perhaps I had high expectations but could not get people comfortable about the projects. Now, I am convinced, and here I agree fully with Mr. Eley, that this town is stagnating. Even worse I fear this stagnation will produce a decline in the quality of life in future years.

Is this the fault of the Mayor of Municipal Council? I don't think so.

Experts and consultants were hired to help with decisions made for the sewer corewall, the water treatment plant, the Two-Dollar Coin, the waterfront development and suspension bridge. This advice may not have been the best, so therefore we cannot blame our elected leaders.

Can we blame staff? I don't think so. There are some good people working hard for us and we should make every effort to retain them.

The advice from hired experts was not the very best. Most importantly there are not many well-trained and qualified experts available. North America is some 20-30 years behind Europe when it comes to planning. Most European communities have a master plan spanning 50 years into the future.

That is exactly the point where many problems we face in Campbellford could have been avoided. There is no master plan for our long-range future. Project by project seems to get isolated consideration, such as the suspension bridge without having an overall picture in mind.

Town development is a very complex and sometimes painful enterprise. Mistakes cannot be easily erased. That is why it is important to develop a master plan to get a town like Campbellford on the right track towards the future and as a cost-saving feature for the taxpayers.

So new blood on Council could not hurt although I think even the "old crew" would have been able to make things happen. Except for farming there appears to be no great employment opportunities for youth in the region. But it is not too late to act to produce positive results.

Some of my recommendations include:

- Build the riverfront walkway in Campbellford east from the bridge downstream and from the bridge upstream with the same design as the walkway along the river. I suggest using three-metre trees for the landscaping to permit future developments and the town silhouette visible from the west side. I am opposed to the proposed chain link fence with pillars as a barrier along the water as it could be dangerous for children.

- Complete a study to determine the location of a second bridge. The study should also determine the right connections to the existing highways. How about a bypass for Highway 30 around the town, north of Campbellford. I urged a second bridge to town council eight years ago.

- Also getting a second bridge could create a fantastic opportunity to evaluate the inner traffic. I would suggest making the downtown core a pedestrian-only area, beginning south of Sharpe's IGA and ending up at the Town Hall and beginning on the Bank of Montreal and ending up at No Frills (including the existing Bridge) for Bridge Street. That would create a unique opportunity to have Canada's first traffic free downtown, which already exists in some European communities.

- Build a pedestrian bridge over the old railway pillars, as my proposal eight years ago in a design matching the existing bow bridge.

- Build a walkway down to the suspension bridge to connect Ferris Park with the downtown and riverfront.

- Implement initiatives to attract new businesses for the proposed pedestrian area in the downtown. Bring artists and artisans together there as an attraction for tourists.

- Move the Two-Dollar Coin monster outside Old Mill Park. I like Brent Townsend's design. I like the metal craftsmanship of the monument but it's oversized for the small park.

- Starting in 2004, cut maintenance on gravel concession roads back to a minimum. Pave one of the concession roads each year with a layer of asphalt to reduce the maintenance work involved with grass cutting and winter maintenance.

- Don't raise community taxes but don't cut them back either for the next 10 years. After 10-15 years, sticking to the above-mentioned proposals, and executing them properly, the community can start cutting municipal taxes. I'm sure the taxpayers would like that very much.

ately," he said. "The stress of the job has increased exponentially (but) police officers, on a daily basis, participate in acts of kindness and compassion."

With the creation of Police Services Boards, Townships like Asphodel-Norwood "have a say now."

Councillor Terry Low said a lot of people don't bother looking beyond police costs.

"You get an average Joe who puts on a vest every day and stands between me and somebody who wants to do my family harm. You can pay me 10 times that amount and I wouldn't do it."

Deputy-Reeve Cathy Turner agreed that people really "have no idea of what the police really do" and that Council and the general public needs reminding of that.

"We are responsible for policing now," Reeve Doug Pearcy added. "We better start lobbying our provincial and federal governments to reform the court system - it's getting worse instead of better."

Mr. Pearcy said they could also help local police by urging the government "about putting a bit of respect back into our schools" and by working pro-actively with all stakeholders.

Sgt. Collins issued a standing invitation to Councillors to spend a Friday night shift with an officer to get a closer view of daily policing issues.

CHSS student is Miss Teen Canada Galaxy

By Brian Dunning

Thomasburg - Dyan Perry was just following in her mother's footsteps when she recently captured the Miss Teen Canada Galaxy 2004 title. The 15-year-old was chosen Miss Teen over eight other contestants last month at the Delta Hotel in Ottawa.

Dyan's mother Diane is a former beauty contestant herself having won a number of titles including the Ontario Miss Mid-Western Pageant.

As well she has helped to judge and organize pageants. Mrs. Perry said while some frown on beauty pageants both she and her daughter feel contestants can be good role models. She said contestants such as the Miss Teen Canada Galaxy are not the "meat shows" of years past. She said contestants are judged on their poise, being photogenic, and being able to present themselves in a positive, articulate manner.

Dyan pointed out that 50% of the winning score is based on how the contestant handles themselves during an interview.

Dyan's decision to enter the contest was hers alone. Although aware her mother is a former pageant winner she wasn't pushed into entering this contest. Mrs. Perry said she was not trying to re-live her life through her daughter. Dyan quickly agreed saying the decision to enter the pageant was her's alone and while her mother didn't put any pressure on her she appreciates her mother's experience and support.

"My Mom has taught me many important traits useful in the pageant business and has shared her experiences with me, enabling me to adapt to the pageant world," she said. "I am privileged to have a mother with this type of experience that she is very happy and willing to share with me and others."

"She taught me proper etiquette, the importance of poise and a good personality. For these valuable lessons that I have learnt and my public relations capabilities I feel I would have a lot to offer," she added.

Dyan first displayed her talents when she started dancing at the age of four. Over the years she has studied jazz, tap, ballet, Pointe, Demi-character and National Highland dancing. Dyan also has extensive modelling training being a graduate of professional modelling/acting at Mode Elle in Belleville. She has participated in a number of dance competitions as well as plays.

She'll represent Canada next year at the Galaxy International Pageant in United States

Mrs. Perry says of Dyan's drive, "There is nothing she hasn't tried that she hasn't been good at."

Dyan is hoping for a career in modelling or acting but she is still keeping up with her studies at Centre Hastings Secondary School, where she is in Grade 10. She is currently studying American sign language and wants to learn French. She is enrolled in the Odyssey Program for gifted students and is on the school's Intramural Council.

Dyan said she was a little nervous about how her fellow students would react to her winning the Miss Teen title but she said when they announced it over the school's PA system she could hear students in other classrooms cheering.

"My home room was ecstatic," she said.

During her reign as Miss Teen Canada Galaxy Dyan will be travelling to promote the pageant along with the Miss Canada Galaxy and the Mrs. Canada Galaxy. She will also be working closely with the Sunshine Dreams for Kids Foundation in Kingston assisting them in their fundraising and wish-granting system.

Dyan already has been a "royal guest" at a number of events and she said she is more than willing to attend any local charity event to help support the community.

She will be representing Canada next year at the Galaxy International Pageant in Ohio.

Mrs. Perry and her husband Tom are very proud of their daughter and rightly so. She has two brothers John, age 14 and Kenneth, 11.

Cooper Wild Kids Poker Run a huge success

By Denise Gray

The Cooper Wild Kids Bantam Girls Hockey Team held their 5th Annual Poker

Run in Cooper on Sunday, October 5. The weather was perfect, a little cool, but people were dressed for it. The first bikes arrived at 8:50 in the morning and as the morning progressed the bikes came over the hill in droves, at the end of the day we had registered a whopping 94 bikes. The winning hands for the day went to Pat Quinlan, Grant Bronson, Brian Thompson and Shawn Pack took the 50/50 home. A great day for the Wild Kids and their families and for everyone who participated in this annual event. Each year it seems to get a little bigger. Hey Quinton H., your coat and mittens are still here.

Special thanks to all the landowners who make this annual poker run possible, to Mark & Tammy Graham and David & Lisa Graham for the use of their property for parking, without your support this girls hockey team would not be possible. Thanks to David & Lisa Graham for helping with the trail on that cold night, and to Bruce Martin, Andy Bonter & Randy Gray for building the bridge. Rumour has it, the 700 Polaris from Bonter Marine, showed a few baby bikes how to operate through Black Creek & Johnson Hole. As well, thanks to all of our sponsors, Doug Hunter, Complete Denture Centre, Madoc Dental Centre, Madoc Legion, Madoc Oddfellows, Two Loons and Bonter Marine. Check out next weeks paper for photos from this event.

The Wild Kids first home game is scheduled for Thanksgiving Monday, October 13 at 7:30 p.m. - Madoc Arena. Hope to see you there -- good luck girls!

Centre Hastings saw two debates for candidates this week, one in the village of Madoc and then Ivanhoe on Wednesday.

Ivanhoe's was moderated by Owen Ketcheson. Reeve Tom Deline, who was acclaimed, thanked the group People Helping People for arranging the debates. Deputy Reeve Larry Mitz welcomed residents and said the reason council had accomplished what it had was because it was a civil one, where people argued ideas and not personalities. "For example," he said, "sometimes think Tom Deline is an honest, sincere, dedicated man, who sometimes has stupid ideas." Mitz said that given the two new candidates who are running, residents can be proud of council and its future.

Taking part in the debate were incumbents Crichton Harrop and Dave Shulz, and newcomers Shelby Kramp and Agnes Thompson.

Crichton Harrop spoke first, and said Centre Hastings has enjoyed a 3% growth rate for the last 5 years, and this is the highest in the county north of the 401. He said the previous council made this happen.

He outlined projects he has in mind during his term in council, including regulations of the Inter Act, making improvements at the Madoc Community Hall, and a new centre Hastings, which would have thousands of people a month, is not drawing people away from the community from other projects.

Shelby Kramp teaches political communication and addressed the council. She said she doesn't see it back as a council wait for things, preferring instead to be more active and involved. Born and raised in Hastings, Kramp is involved in politics from student council to working with the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, and as a Senator in the municipalities. She said Centre Hastings is financially independent, that as a result that Centre Hastings receives its fair share of provincial funding, and that Centre Hastings is improving the level of service.

News from the Cooper Wild Kids girls hockey team

4-1 victory over Kingston

By Denise Gray

The Cooper Wild Kids hosted their first home game this past Thanksgiving Monday at the Madoc arena. The girls were ready, much like Kingston, but at 7:30 when the game was supposed to start, we were delayed because we had no referee. A few phone calls and finally the game started about fifteen minutes late. Thanks to John Boulton and Tim Butcher for helping us out of this minor set back.

The Wild Kids set the pace early for this game and with great end to end action, some pretty fancy passing and sheer determination the Wild Kids' Diana Boulton, assisted by Brittany Gray and Melissa Martin opened the scoring midway through the first period. The second period had great opportunities for both teams, but some outstanding goaltending by Lindsay Black, and great defensive work by Melissa

Martin, Marlee Fisher, Celeste Bonter, Bailey McCullough and Jessica Parks, held the Kingston Ice Wolves off. The third period was all Wild Kids. Riley Danford, assisted by Andrea McAlary and Diana Boulton, scored to set the pace early in the third. Brittany Gray, with a great pass from Lacey Burditt and Riley Danford, scored a few minutes later to secure the victory. Just twenty seconds later, Gray, assisted by Boulton, scored again to make it 4-0 in favour of Cooper. Kingston fought back scoring one goal late in the third, but the Wild Kids prevailed and took their first home game with a score of 4-1. Way to go Wild Kids.

The Cooper Wild Kids next home game is Monday, October 20 at 7:30 p.m. against Lindsay at the Madoc arena. Hope to see you there.

Marian Foster killed in car crash on Ridge Road

By Lawrence McAllister

Marian Foster, 68, of Madoc, was pronounced dead at the scene of a car accident last Wednesday afternoon. The crash took place on Ridge Road in the township of Stirling-Rawdon, about 2 kilometres west of Highway 62.

The driver of the other car involved, Ginette Hunter, 38, of Tweed, was treated in Belleville General and released later that day with minor injuries.

Ridge Road was closed down for the rest of the afternoon as police from Central Hastings OPP and Stirling-Rawdon, along with firefighters and paramedics were at the scene.

Stirling-Rawdon Police Chief Frank Wallwork said that Foster was westbound in a Toyota Corolla, crossed into the eastbound lane and struck Hunter's Chrysler Intrepid. The cause is not known, he said, but neither alcohol nor speed appear to be factors.

Dave Shulz said he's been a member of the community for more than 30 years and has served on council for 9. He has extensive experience in senior management and financial administration, and a good working relationship with municipal staff. Shulz said he will vigorously promote an open council, transparent in all its activities, along with a fair and honest relationship with all residents. He said he has always insisted on tight controls over all financial matters. He currently serves as an active member of nine of the municipality's boards and committees. He pointed out that Centre Hastings has a new doctor and nurse practitioner, a new OPP station, enlarged library that is the envy of other towns, and finally will shortly have a Tim Horton's. "We have a residential building boom," he said, "probably topping everything before it."

Agnes Thompson said she is retired and has time to serve on council. She previously served on council about 20 years ago and is familiar with its workings. Calling the area "a bit of heaven", she said she refused to move years ago, even tempted by the idea of an easier commute to work, because of her love of the area. She said she supports local farmers, and would like to attract small businesses and industry to the area. Thompson, who was instrumental in the formation of the Huntingdon Fire Department, said Centre Hastings has been a great environment to raise children, and she'd like to work to keep it that way.

The first question from the floor was about library funding, especially in comparison to Stirling's. Dave Shulz, who is on the library board, said he never saw council refuse to approve a budget from the board, and that they were always created according to need.

The disclosure of municipal salaries was next, with Kramp saying "We're not evaluating the person, but the position, and it should be transparent." Shulz pointed out that salary ranges are public knowledge, if not the exact salary itself.

Bylaw enforcement was the next topic. It seems, a resident said, that some are automatically enforced, while others are not; that non-official practices can affect his property values, and that the municipality is seeing junk yards and tractor trailers used for storage. Councillors have told him nothing would be done about these things unless complaints were in writing and signed. Why should he have to be the town's bylaw enforcement officer, he asked.

Harrop said the signed letter is a requirement to avoid anonymous phone calls, but the resident said he was not anonymous; he had asked them for action face to face and had not hidden his identity. Harrop agreed that, though a bylaw officer patrol costs money, "it's something we need to do." In answer to other questions, Harrop also said Centre Hastings' bylaws are updated periodically, such as the recent repeal of an 1892 bylaw forbidding bicycling on boardwalks.

Councillors refused to be pinned down on the question of whether they'd act on a complaint without a signed letter, but both Shulz and Harrop said that since there is concern about the issue, it must be dealt with.

A resident next asked about a certain mother/daughter municipal employee issue, and asked the candidates' opinions on the matter. Thompson flatly said this should not be allowed. Kramp said it would depend on the person's qualifications. Shulz said qualifications do enter the question, but the relative must not be the person doing the hiring. Harrop pointed out his son is a lawyer concerned with the Tim Horton's issue, and he has therefore avoided any dealings with the topic. He said that the daughter in question was not hired by the mother, but by council. When residents claimed the daughter could not do the job well, Harrop said that like any municipal position it could be open for review - and that the same person could very well be hired again if there was no better candidate for the job. Harrop noted that in a small community it can be difficult to find a qualified person who is not related in some way, and on the other hand it can be impossible to find someone qualified who lives in the community. As an example, he spoke of the requirement that the town have a 'Category 2' operator for the water and sewage systems, and this person does not live in Centre Hastings.

The debate wrapped up with Harrop describing how he helped a perfectly healthy ex-football player who had parked in a disabled parking spot, and embarrassed him into moving his vehicle. Refreshments by People Helping People followed to end the evening.

It's Halloween and time to pick pumpkins

(O.P.S.) It's that time again, with ghosts, goblins and trick or treats. Come to our Ontario farms; they are the best place to find the pumpkin of your choice; large or small; long or fat, suit them to one's imaginative carving plans.

Pick your own or choose already picked, enjoy all the actions and happenings on our farms. Go home refreshed, relaxed and ready for a new week. Choosing a pumpkin is only one of the happenings at our farms. Take time to escape to the country and rediscover the aromas of a fall day. You can tour a haunted house, go for a haunted wagon ride, ride around a tricycle track, watch your children feed the animals, take pictures through cutouts of funny farm scenes, then everyone can go out and Pick a Pumpkin:

Selection is important. Choose a pumpkin according to what you want to carve. Pumpkin carving is a tradition and the main event for young and old alike. Pumpkins come in all sizes and shapes. Medium size pumpkins work best for most stencils you make or buy.

Very large pumpkins can be carved with elaborate designs and used as a centerpiece on your patio, porch or table. Smaller pumpkins work well for carving traditional faces. They can be done quickly and you can scatter them about for parties, haunts, or lighting a pathway up your walk. Advance planning is the key to your pumpkin carving success.

A legend still rocking after all these years

Rompin' Ron entertains even in the arena lounge

By Rolly Ethier

The Rock 'n' Roll legend and Canadian icon was sitting there in the arena lounge holding court with big Jim Peeling, General Manager of the Campbellford Rebels junior C team, and anyone else wandering by.

Rockin' Ronnie Hawkins, the man who introduced a new brand of popular music that became known as rockabilly back in the 1950s, was visiting Campbellford to make the opening faceoff for the Rebels' clash with Georgina Ice last Saturday night.

He's not a hockey fan, the Hawk admitted, but he was fulfilling a favour for some good friends, including Rebel coach Doug (Mugger) Hart. He said he had to hurry back to catch some Las Vegas boxing on his big screen television.

"Man, I'm really a big boxing fan," said Hawkins. His pronounced Arkansas drawl is still very much in evidence even after living in Canada for the past 46 years.

The white-headed legend was dressed in his customary black T-shirt with the Hawk emblazoned across it in white letters, a Rebel ball cap perched jauntily on his head, wearing his trademark tinted shades. Wanda, his wife of 43 years, accompanied him and was seated nearby.

The 68-year-old Hawk man, diagnosed with pancreatic cancer, was given six months to live almost two years ago, but here he was big as life entertaining because Rompin' Ron entertains even when off the stage. Never one to stand on formality, he was kibitzing with anyone who happened by, offering a few samples of his colourful life-hewn adages or perspectives.

Hawkins tried numerous alternative medicines and has been pronounced cancer-free by the medical community. A CAT scan and later a MRI showed no sign of a tumour but treatment cost him big time. He was forced to sell his prized cars from the 60s and various artifacts from his home on Stony Lake and he refers to his big Stony Lake home as "mortgage manor."

"Yep, I'm healing up better every day," he told us in the interview at the Campbellford/Seymour Arena. "I'm walking pretty good now. I've been telling people I've been taking more drugs than the Rolling Stones. And it's legal."

Th Hawk says the operation and health care treatment he received recently would have cost him a million dollars in the U.S. "and that's what I owe to people here in The Promised Land."

"Hey, let's get behind our health care system because everything else doesn't mean anything," he noted. That's about as political as the Hawk ever gets.

Quickly reverting back to form, when he was told what to expect in his faceoff task on the ice, Hawkins reminded Peeling: "Now keep all those women back when Ron recalled: "We just got tired of that life in the bars on the Memphis circuit. We played for an hour and then fought for an hour. Up here it was the opposite of what tions were getting aboard the rock 'n roll bandwagon.

As a young musician the Hawk said his musical direction was influenced by such black artists as Little Richard, Fats Domino and Chuck Berry along with Elvis and Carl Perkins—"all of that music coming out of Memphis."

Asked if he and the band were trying to produce their own version of that music, the Hawk said: "No we were just plain trying to steal it but couldn't do it so I guess it came out that other way. Like I was trying to copy a good singer down there called Bobby Blue Bland but hard as I tried it came out more like Ernest Tubb."

Hawkins appears to be back on the comeback trail. He has already played several gigs and plans more. He also has a new CD coming out. Mr. Rock 'n Roll is excited about his induction into the Canadian Industry Hall of Fame next March and the documentary profile being prepared to be introduced that same week.

As the old rocker said his good-byes and was leaving the arena, it was only fitting that the sound system was playing one of his trademark numbers—"Bo Diddley."

Rocking With the Hawk—Hockey fans attending last Saturday night's interlocking junior C game between the Campbellford Rebels and Georgina Ice had an opportunity to see rock and roll legend Rompin' Ronnie Hawkins in person. He made the ceremonial faceoff with Rebels' co-captains Jamie McComb and Gordie Nelson and Georgina captain Trevor Sedore. photo/Rolly Ethier.

I go out there. Don't let them tear my clothes off."

Asked about any personal recollections with Elvis Presley, Hawkins replied: "I really only met Elvis twice and the first time came before he was a big star. My first thought was how the heck could anyone get ahead with a name like that. You can easily see what a psychic I am."

The Promised Land
He refers to Canada as The Promised Land because of what his move from the U.S. to Canada did for his career.

"You know people don't realize or pay attention to the great talent we have here in this country," said the man who has been making a living doing something he loves for the past 52 years.

Talking about his career move to Canada, Rompin'

everybody thought—the true law and order was here."

But those were the days when rock 'n roll, with racial segregation in the south occupying the front pages, was about as popular as a visit to the dentist's chair. People were reluctant to accept the music because of its black connections.

Hawkins credits CHUM radio in Toronto in successfully introducing rock 'n roll by consistently playing the band's style of music. With CHUM spearheading the way with air play in the 1950s and 60s, by the end of the 60s many other sta-

Novice Hornets get first taste of action

Asphodel-Norwood - The Begg Fuels Norwood Novice Hornets played their first exhibition match against the Percy Bulldogs Oct. 5.

This year's line-up includes returning players Ryan Bell, Emily Crowley, Emma Hughes, Christopher Irvine, Cameron Klompaker, David Moore and Jessie Stinson. Three Sr. Tyke players, Travis Bennett, Ethan McDougall and Joey Walsh, have also joined them along with three players new to hockey: Niall Jensen, Nick Taylor and Derek Wynne.

While victory was not be theirs in their first outing, the team played enthusiastically, with some great saves by goalie Cameron Klompaker. Joey Walsh picked up a well-earned goal with an assist from McDougall.

Fans and players enjoyed the return to the arena and are certain to have some great hockey memories from the season.

This year's coaching staff is head coach Tim Klompaker, assistant Albert Crowley, trainer Ryan Hughes and manager Annette Klompaker.

27-year employee of Bell Canada, Sue says she has both the energy and the time to make a difference.

In particular, she promises to seek out ways for communities, government and education professionals to work together to keep rural schools open.

Speaking at an all-candidates' meeting in Warkworth Oct. 9th, Matthews expressed similar objectives.

He said he would work towards addressing the ever-increasing costs of transportation and the need to lobby the Board for more funding for special education. He said an effort to keep all of the Board's rural schools open is a major priority.

Matthews offers a 47-year career in public education, including 35 years as a vice-principal, principal and teacher in the elementary system. For the past 12 years he had served as a trustee for the local board.

"I am committed to ensure that our children constantly improve in provincial testing so they will have all the tools needed to succeed in the future," he told a group of roughly 100 people in attendance for the all-candidates meeting at the Warkworth Town Hall.

Unbeaten Georgina has difficulty beating Campbellford 2-1

Campbellford—Legendary rocker Rompin' Ronnie Hawkins appeared on Campbellford ice to make the opening faceoff but his presence failed to provide the incentive needed by the junior C Rebels.

Of course, that had more to do with the calibre of the opposition than the excitement of having a celebrity visitor like Hawkins in attendance.

The Georgina Ice, last year's Ontario junior C finalists, came to Campbellford unbeaten with four consecutive victories under their belts and proceeded to make it five in a row by edging the hard-luck Rebels 2-1.

Rebels encountered early penalty problems and the Ice cashed in with two quick power play goals just 21 seconds apart at 2:17 and 2:38 of the first period. The Canadian-Tire clad Rebels kept battling, however, and made Georgina work hard defensively to maintain their narrow margin for the victory.

Captain Trevor Sedore outduelled goalie Gord Neave down low with a backhand from the lip of the crease to open the scoring. Winger Dave McIntyre orchestrated the play from the left corner.

On the ensuing faceoff an up-ice rush by Cameron O'Neill split the defence and the latter deked Neave for what turned out to be the game winner. Drawing assists were Adam Funk and Adam Miceli.

The do's and don'ts of decorating with colour

(NC)—Decorating is a world of personal choices. There are no hard and fast rules. Some broad principles, however, can help you to ensure continuity and harmony across your home decor. The pointers below from Dominique Pépin, Senior Brand Manager at a paint manufacturer and member of the Colour Marketing Group, can help you to use colours in your decor more effectively.

- Before you begin the paint selecting process it is always recommended to choose textiles, fabrics and furnishing first. It is easier to find a shade of paint than a shade of a fabric.

- Backgrounds should enhance what is in the foreground without being obtrusive. A good table setting looks best against a stark white background

- Keep continuity among rooms with a common colour in furnishing or woodwork.

- One colour should always dominate a colour scheme. Avoid using two colours of the same strength together.

- Cool colours recede and increase the apparent size of a room whereas warm colours advance and decrease the size of a room.

- Every room should have a focal point of interest. It can be an accent colour, a piece of furniture or an object of art.

- Use warm colours in rooms that do not face the sun and cooler colours in rooms that receive ample sunlight.

- Darker colours work well for skirting and trims. They are also strong accents.

From the calming tones of the sea to the urgency of a warning sign, colours affect our daily lives. Understanding how colours act can help you choose the scheme and achieve the effect you desire.

Once you've decided on Window Decor Q&A

Q: What are some window shade options for a second story window in a study?

A: If you want a shade, consider the Top-Down/Bottom-Up feature, which allows you to cover the bottom half of your window and not block your view. For instance, if you're studying or reading, this option allows you to block people from seeing into the room while maintaining some of the outside view and sunlight.

the colours that you want to add to your rooms, you must know how to add these most effectively.

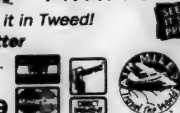

What mood do you want to set? For example, all neutrals in a room provide for a calm, quiet environment, while related colours make for a relaxing effect. On the opposite end of the spectrum, strong contrasting colours create a lively, stimulating mood.

One of the latest trends in paint involves monochrome colour schemes. That is this use of one dominant colour on the walls in a room. Complementary tones or different colours are now added through the addition of accessories.

Fall & Winter 2003 HOME IMPROVEMENT

Fireplaces: A burning issue - tips from the experts

(NC)—Nothing radiates hospitality like a fireplace. It's the perfect way to take the chill off cold winter nights. Not only can a fireplace lend charm to a home but it can also enhance the resale value. In fact, many homeowners, when asked, rate fireplaces as one of the three most-wanted amenities.

In most homes, while fireplaces fulfill a fashionable rather than a functional purpose, maintenance is crucial and safety rules still apply.

Energy experts offer the following safety tips:

- Have your chimney inspected and cleaned annually by a certified chimney specialist.

- Cover the chimney with a mesh screen spark arrester to prevent stray sparks.

- Remove branches hanging above the chimney, flues or vents and keep the roof clear of leaves and other debris.

- Keep the hearth area clear of decorations, debris and flammable materials that could catch fire.

- Install stovepipe thermometers to help monitor flue temperatures.

- Never restrict the air supply to the fireplace. This causes creosote build-up that could result in a chimney fire.

- Leave glass doors open until the fire is dead.

- Use seasoned hardwood, not soft moist wood that hastens creosote build-up and sparks easily.

- Never burn cardboard boxes, trash or debris — use starter logs.

- Place logs on a grate at the rear of the fireplace.

- Build small fires that burn completely and produce less smoke.

- Never leave a fire unattended.

- Always extinguish the fire before going to bed or leaving the house.

- Soak hot ashes in water and place them in a metal container outside.

- Install smoke and carbon monoxide detectors in your house.

Whether your fireplace is gas- or wood-burning, don't forget it will likely be the room's focal point. So while you're keeping the energy costs down, also consider adorning your hearth to complement the room's décor, making it a great place to spend those cold nights.

Invading lake plant competes with native species

by Nancy Derrer

Monitoring conducted by Trent University and the Kaskabog Lake Property Owners' Association has identified an invasive aquatic plant fanwort in several bays, in high density. Since July 1999, when this aquatic submergent plant was reported by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources in Kaskabog Lake and North River northeast of Peterborough it has become a concern.

It is believed that the plant has been established in the lake since 1991.

While the environmental impacts of fanwort are still relatively unknown, several jurisdictions in the northeastern United States have found the plant to be very competitive, forming dense stands which crowd out native vegetation and interfere with recreational water use.

Fanwort is a common aquarium plant and it is likely that it was introduced to Kaskabog Lake by aquarium dumping. Populations of fanwort can become established from a single stem fragment and could be easily transported to new lakes through boat traffic. Of particular concern is the position of Kaskabog Lake within the Crowe River watershed and its proximity to Stony Lake and the Trent Severn Waterway, in a relatively short time fanwort could spread throughout the region.

Last weekend, 15+ people met at Blue Mountain Lodge on Kaskabog Lake; they represented residents of upper and lower Stony Lake, Belmont and Kaskabog lakes. It was determined that more research has to be done on fanwort's impact on fisheries and other aquatic plants, as well as monitoring how extensively it has already spread.

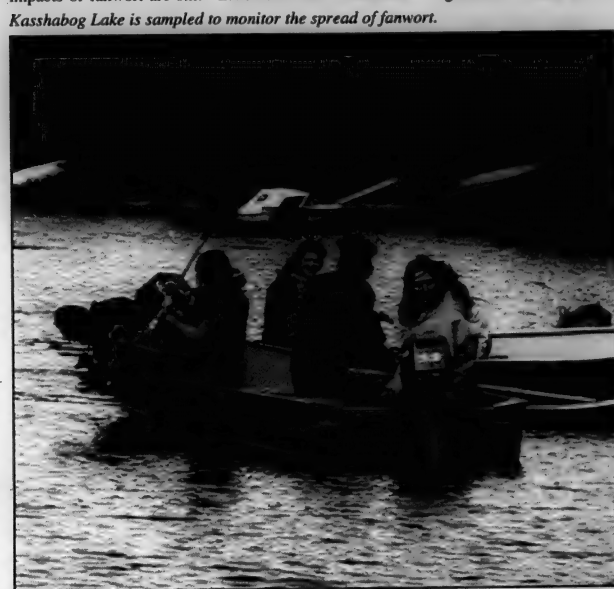

The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters has developed a protocol that lake associations will use to monitor the impact and extent of fanwort's spread.

If you have any questions, please contact OFAH in Peterborough at 705-778-9577, visit its website at www.ofah.org or e-mail your concerns to ofah@ofah.org. Francine Macdonald is responsible for fisheries/Aquatics Bi the federation.

If you have news of an upcoming event you would like the community to know about, please call the editor at 613-478-2552 and leave a message.

Madoc Public Library dedicates Library week to Marian Foster

'She worked tirelessly' for the library

By Susan Smith

Oct. 20-26 is Ontario Public Library week and the Madoc Public Library is dedicating this week to Marian Foster, Library Board member and dedicated volunteer at the Madoc Library. Marian will be missed a great deal by Board members, staff and patrons. She was always willing to chat with patrons and recommend good "reads" to them and patrons are already missing her bright smile and friendly nature. She worked tirelessly for the Library Board, fundraised for the new Library and Cultural Centre, and volunteered on the circulation desk at the Library on Wednesday afternoons. We'll miss you Marian.

Each year, during the third week of October, public libraries across the province celebrate Ontario Public Library week by promoting library services in Ontario. Ontario Public Library week recognizes the important contribution Ontario libraries make to the economic health and quality of life in our communities through their role in preserving and providing access to information in all its forms.

Libraries are at the forefront of the information age. With more than 1,100 service points throughout Ontario, public libraries provide access to more than 29 million books for research, recreation and self-improvement.

And now virtually every library branch in the province also provides access to electronic information through the Internet.

The Madoc Public Library also offers a shut in service for those who cannot get out due to medical reasons.

Staff will select books for you and volunteers from the Friends of the Library will deliver books once a month. Please call the library at 473-4456 for information about this service.

Have you been receiving any orange cards in the mail about overdue books? Well now would be a good time to return those books, because to celebrate Ontario Public Library week we will be charging "NO" fines. See you at the Library.

Grizzlies back in action this season

By Barb Stevens

The puck has dropped and the 2003-04 hockey season is well under way. Mike Franks has been working hard in preparing his Tykes for their upcoming games. These little Grizzlies are practicing their skating skills and learning new drills and are anxious to put them to use in their first game. Keep up the good work little Grizzlies.

The Novices have also been practicing hard. Their 1st game was in Deseronto where they played a good game but were defeated by the Bulldogs 6-0.

Next they were in Frankford to play against the Huskies and were excited when they scored their first two goals. The Huskies then pulled ahead to win 5-2. Good luck in your next game.

The Atom Grizzlies travelled to Belleville for their season opener and fell short 13-3. Our goals were scored by Isaac Shin (2) assisted by Shawn Peeling (2) and Mark Thompson assisted by Colin McBeath & Adam Denny. This shortfall only made the Grizzlies want to play harder so when they traveled to Deseronto they were excited to beat the Bulldogs 8-3. Centre Hastings goals were scored by Shamel Walsh (2) unassisted, Nicholas Ferguson with a "hat trick", 2 unassisted and I assisted by Shawn Peeling, Shane Bird with a nice pass from Mark Thompson, Dylan Adams unassisted and Isaac Shin from Dylan Adams.

Great teamwork and great goaltending by Trevor Kemp and Leslie Marrisette.

The Atoms first home game was against Brighton. The Braves pulled ahead for an 11-4 victory. Grizzly goals scored by Shawn Peeling (2), Dylan Adams and Mark Thompson. Joshua Shin, Dylan Adams & Nick Ferguson each earned an assist.

The PeeWee Grizzlies have been out if full force and playing some close games. Sorry guys, I haven't seen any gamesheets to say who earned the goals and assists but I promise to get some in next weeks paper.

The Bantams have been playing some close games but have yet to bring home a win. They were defeated 4-1 by Stone Mills (Tarnworth) on Oct. 12th with the lone goal belonging to Travis Hughes assisted by Benjamin Anger.

Next they travelled to Deseronto for a 9:30 p.m. game. They played a fast paced exciting game (I think they play better late at night...) but fell to a 7-5 loss with the Bulldogs scoring their 7th goal with less than a minute left in the 3rd.

Jake Wallwork earned a well deserved "hat trick" and Colby Bird was close at his heels with the other two goals. Sorry team, I haven't seen the game sheet to see who earned the assists. Murray, we hope your well on your way to recovery.

Again, I'm missing game sheets for the Midgets and Juveniles so I hope to have your write ups in next week's paper.

On behalf of Centre Hastings Minor Hockey Association, we would like to extend our deepest sympathy to the family and friends of Christopher Palmateer of Tweed. God Bless your little "hockey angel".

On Sunday Oct. 19, the Community Futures Development Corporation has chosen Small Business Week, October 19 to 25, to honour community partners for their contribution to Economic Development. Community Futures Director Rob Price presented Madoc & District Chamber of Commerce President Grant Ketchison with a framed Certificate of Appreciation on behalf of local small business, recognizing the role of small business as a partner in economic development and the number one contributor to employment creation. The theme is "Building communities, one small business at a time", a reference to the important role small and medium-sized businesses (SMBs) play in the local and provincial economy.

In Ontario, there are more than 322,000 small businesses with fewer than 50 employees. These account for nearly 95 per cent of all Ontario businesses. That's 52 per cent of the total employment number in Ontario. According to Statistics Canada, the small business sector is responsible for the creation of about half of all new jobs in Ontario.

News from the Cooper Wild Kids

Two close games against Lindsay result in two wins over the Lynx

The Wild Kids travelled to Lindsay on Wed. Oct. 15 to take on the Lindsay Lynx. The Wild Kids came out strong with great end to end action, but some outstanding goaltending by the Lindsay goalie held them to 0-0 score at the end of the first period. The Wild Kids continued pressure, but it was Lindsay who got on the scoreboard first, late in the second period. Lindsay scored to make it 1-0 in favour of Lindsay. The Wild Kids fought back hard, great goaltending by Lindsay Black, and defensive coverage from all the Wild Kids held this strong offensive team off, at the end of the second period it was still 1-0 in favour of Lindsay. The third period had great chances for both sides, an outstanding game by both teams. The Wild Kids continued to put the pressure on and at 1:06 left in the game, Andrea McAlarey, assisted by Brittany Gray, scored to take the game with a score of 2-1 in favour of Cooper. They had made a come back to win. What a game. Way to go girls!

The Wild Kids took on the Lindsay Lynx team on Monday night at the Madoc arena. Again, this game was great end to end action, outstanding defensive coverage, great offensive chances and great goaltending for both sides. The Wild Kids scored first with Marlee Fisher, assisted by Andrea McAlarey, taking a shot from the point and putting it past the Lindsay goalie late in the first period. The second period was end to end, but with no goals. The third period had great opportunities for both sides. Kristina Dafeo, assisted by Kaley Calberry and Christina Ashley, took a shot from the point to score and make it 2-0 in favour of Cooper. The Lindsay team fought back with an unanswered goal midway through the third period, but the defensive coverage was too much for Lindsay and the game ended with a score of 2-1 in favour of Cooper Wild Kids. Special thanks to everyone who came out in support of the Wild Kids the 50/50 was worth $73.00. Thanks to Morley Perrie for keeping score for all our games, it is greatly appreciated.

The Wild Kids next home game is scheduled for this Saturday, October 25 - 12:00 noon at the Madoc arena against the Oshawa Panthers. Hope to see you at the Madoc arena.

Groundwater study involves 10 municipalities, conservation group

Quinte Conservation presented some preliminary results from an extensive groundwater study it is undertaking, last week in Ivanhoe.

Quinte Conservation agreed to serve as the project manager for the study at a fall 2002 meeting of municipalities and agencies. Quinte Conservation will be working closely with the Ontario Ministry of the Environment throughout the project. The groundwater study involves ten local municipalities and has a budget of $275,000.

Eighty-five percent of the study cost is being provided by the MOE. The remaining 15 percent will be divided among the participating municipalities, which include: The Corporation of the County of Prince Edward, City of Belleville, Township of Stone Mills, Municipality of Centre Hastings, Municipality of Tweed, Township of Tyendinaga, Municipality of Hastings Highlands, Town of Bancroft, Township of Madoc and Township of Carleton Place.

Groundwater is a precious resource about which little is known. It has become a topic of concern lately because of recent issues about contamination of drinking water sources, and controversy over both water taking permits and the location of new development means this new study in the Quinte region is both timely and topical.

Other groundwater studies are underway in many regions of Ontario. Similar studies are presently being undertaken to the east, west, and northeast in the Cataraqui Region, Lower Trent Region and Mississippi Valley watershed areas, respectively. Regional groundwater studies are part of the Ontario government's continuing efforts to improve water quality, and protect both public safety and water quality at the source, all coordinated as part of Operation Clean Water. The Quinte Region Groundwater Study is part of $15 million in funding allocated for municipal groundwater studies - the largest single investment in groundwater source protection in the province's history.

St. Peter's Church

Rev. Steve Thompson, minister at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church for 7 years, will help celebrate the church's 150th anniversary this Sunday at 11 a.m.

The original church, was built in 1853 and was replaced after fire destroyed it in 1873. It was built by Reverend Wishart, who is said to have been the type of minister who, if he did not see you in church on Sunday, would come riding by horse and knock on your door at 5 a.m., to find out why you'd been missing. Members of groundwater resources including direction of groundwater flow, areas of contamination hazard and sensitive recharge and discharge areas.

The Quinte Conservation's displays included this huge map, along with others detailing preliminary findings.

Part of the overall study will be individual wellhead protection studies for five municipal wells: two Centre Hastings wells that supply the village of Madoc; two wells in the Municipality of Tweed that supply the village of Tweed; and a well in northern Prince Edward County that serves 18 private homes.

The study is expected to lead to improved conservation and protection of drinking water sources as it will provide an understanding of groundwater resources, an inventory of contaminant sources, an overall survey of groundwater use, and an action plan to protect groundwater resources.

The study will assist municipalities in making informed and improved land use planning decisions relating to development, agriculture, and sewage and waste disposal.

It will also provide support data for drought response, wellhead protection and aquifer classification. It is estimated that 90% of rural residents in Ontario depend on groundwater for their drinking water.

Concurrent to the study, Quinte Conservation is also participating in the Provincial Groundwater Monitoring Network (PGMN). Data collected through this network will complement information gathered in the study and contribute to improved understandings and protection of groundwater resources.

The PGMN is a network of almost 400 wells across the province that record data on water quality and quantity. The data collected will assist in determining groundwater quality and aquifer extents across the province with the goal of assuring safe drinking water supplies and will complement knowledge gained through the regional groundwater studies. The network will also provide an early warning system for changes in water levels caused by climate conditions or human activities and information on regional trends in groundwater quality.

Quinte Conservation's study is expected to be complete in December 2003. Municipalities involved in the study will receive information "that they can use, not just another report for the shelf." Municipalities can expect a plain language booklet with a summary of the main report; a planning strategy to implement groundwater protection measures that will be specific to their municipality, and maps of the entire study area showing details about the church devoted one day per week to construct the church.

The church was built in part by Scottish prisoners who gained their freedom in exile after working on the church. The stone storage shed near the church was originally the RCMP headquarters during the Eldorado gold rush.

Marg Kemp will play organ on Sunday, and James Clark, a piper, will also play. Guest minister will be Rev. Gary Morton, from Gananoque.

Norwood Knights rugby action

Attack: The Norwood Knights junior and senior women's rugby teams took a hard hit against visiting Port Hope on a cold, wet and perfectly-rugby-like Tuesday night. The impressive juniors put their unbeaten streak on the line and kept it with a stirring 16-0 win while the very much improved seniors turned in a physical match against their senior rivals from the lakeshore. NDHS dominated most of the game but couldn't get the ball across the touchline in the 0-0

Organizers campaign for new Venture Van

Campbellford--The Trent Hills Transportation Incorporation, also known as the Venture Van, has been in operation since 1992, and provides a transportation service for people with disabilities and for those persons who, regardless of age, are not able to board a regular transit service.

While the Venture Van does its best to provide transportation to all people with disabilities; they are in need of purchasing a new van to meet the ongoing demands of those who rely so heavily on it to access their communities and to attend out of town medical appointments. A new van would be a replacement vehicle as the existing one is at a 'critical' level and will not last much longer.

The Trent Hills Transportation needs to secure $88,000 to purchase another van for the community. They have received a grant for one-third of this cost and with about $25,000 in reserves they will have to look to the community for assistance.

Dinner Theatre

This is a service that is very much in demand. To help fundraise, the committee will be holding a dinner theatre on October 25 at the Campbellford Legion. The dinner theatre will begin at 6 pm. Proceeds for the event will go towards the van project. Tickets are available at Therapacc in Campbellford (653 0551).

The need for a new van in this area is tremendous. As no other service of transportation currently exists in the Trent Hills community, it is essential that this service continue to be available to people with disabilities.

Hope for Donations

If you wish to make a donation to the Venture Van, phone Therapacc Physiotherapy at 653-0551 or mail it to Venture Van Box 1458 Campbellford ON K0L 1L0 and a tax receipt will be issued.

Mary Fennell, a resident of Trent Hills, had been an avid user of the van. She relies on the van daily to provide her with transportation to and from work.

to and from work.

An employee at Campbellford Office Supplies Store, Mary would not have the luxury of maintaining her employment without the transportation services that the Venture Van service provides. She requires a walker to assist her, and the van provides the required accommodation. According to Mary, "using the van makes it easier to come to town". As Mary does not have to always rely on family or friends for transportation, this transportation also provides her with a little independence and freedom and the ability to come and go as she sees fit.

Trent Hills has always been a very generous community and the transportation committee is hopeful everyone will once again get behind the fundraising project needed to maintain this worthwhile service.

ADVENTURES IN DENTURES!

Denturists Will Give You A Reason to Smile

The general public is trained that when they think of teeth they think of the dentist. Why is it then that when people think dentures, most people still think dentist and not denturist? I hear it all the time. Clients enter my office and say "do I need a referral from my dentist?" no you do not. Our services are direct to the public. If you needed to have brain surgery would you expect your General Practitioner to do the surgery? No. If you needed to have your eyes checked, would you expect him to do that? What about your hearing? urinary system or your heart? I am assuming all of you would answer, No "I want to see a specialist."

Denturists are qualified specialists who provide quality, custom dentures. We are committed to creating dentures that fit well, look attractive and allow you to maintain a healthy mouth. Denturists are primary oral health-care providers who specialize in dentures, we are the "Denture Specialists" period. We work directly with our patients to help maintain denture comfort and oral health.

As specialized professionals, we are experienced in the design, fabrication, insertion and adjustment of removable dentures, as well as overdentures on implants, allowing you to benefit fully from the latest technology.

Unlike other health-care practitioners who provide dentures, most Denturists' work is performed on the premises, by the denturist that sees you. We are skilled in the clinical and laboratory aspects of making dentures that are right for each individual. We have first-hand experience in working with you the client, which allows us to meet your individual needs, both for today and tomorrow.

The BPS Denture, There is a Difference!
 The Esthetic Revolution in Removable Dentures

- Have you ever seen someone for the first time and you immediately knew they wore dentures?
- Have you ever known someone who had an uncomfortable denture that didn't fit right?
- Are you aware that a poorly fitting denture can cause premature aging?

What should you expect?

- Premium quality dentures that instill confidence and provide comfort
- Precision dentures that provide optimum function while eating, speaking or laughing
- Natural life-like teeth that recreate the character of your smile
- Dentures that restore the natural contour of your lips and facial muscles.

Choosing a Quality Denture Results in Better:

Appearance, Comfort, Fit and Function so remember when it comes to dentures the best compliment is no compliment. You don't want people to say "My what nice dentures you have" but rather "what a nice smile you have."

Crowley family earn top farm honours

Asphodel-Norwood - For the second year in a row a family from Asphodel-Norwood has won the Farm family of the Year Award. John and Cynthia Crowley and family of Crovalley Holsteins just outside of Hastings has been awarded the Greater Peterborough Chamber of Commerce/Peterborough County Federation of Agriculture honour.

John began farming with his father in 1977 and eventually took over the family farming operation in 1996. Today, this fourth generation of Crowleys operates an 800 acre dairy operation which consists of 200 Holstein cattle. The dairy operation produces around 51,000 litres of milk a month. As part of the family enterprise, the Crowley family sells animals for breeding and show and also markets and exports embryos internationally.

The Crowleys have received honours for their cattle at Fairs across the county, province and internationally including the Royal Winter Fair and the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wisconsin.

sin.

Aside from the dairy operation, the family grows 300 acres of alfalfa, 250 acres of corn, 75 acres of soybeans and 75 acres of small grain. All members of this farm family contribute to their local farming community by participating in various clubs and activities.

Children Christina, 16, Justin, 13, Ryan, 11 and Vanessa, 8, actively participate in the farming operation with their parents -- one more reason why the family was chosen the 2003 Farm Family of the Year.

NDIS Knights get their kicks in soccer tourney

Tough soccer battles against Hastings Hurricanes

Warkworth - The Norwood District Intermediate girls squad played two tough and close games against Hastings Hurricanes in League championship tourney Oct. 9 in Warkworth.

The young Lady Knights squad had braved some very weather during practices earlier in the month but were to have summer-like temperatures for game day. The team faced a good Hastings squad in the opener and after a tough battle plus a ten-minute overtime period the girls had to settle for a shoot-out.

The Lady Knights kept the Hurricanes off the score board through defensive play by Amanda Buck, Becki Foss and outstanding goaltending by Jocelyn Jobin. In the shoot-out Hastings got an early two goal lead but Norwood's shooter, Mandy (Molly) Lunn, buried the ball in the net to tie the game right down to the wire.

In the end, Hastings out-scored NDIS 2-1 to win the 1-0 putting NDIS into the "B" division. Following a ruling complication, Norwood had to face the same squad in their second and final game of the day losing 1-0 in regulation.

The Lady Knights showed tremendous team work and teamwork in representing NDIS with great pride. Looking up for the team were Jessica Thomas, Mary-Ann Well, Andrea Wilson, Sammi Trebillock, Emily Thoburn, Brianna Radnor, Jocelyn Jobin, Kristy Hughes, Lisa Foss, Erin Carthew, Becki Foss, Lyndsey Wannamaker, Maria Morley, Mikayla Redden, Amanda Buck, Amanda Ford, Mandy Lunn and Amanda Martin.

Hockey skills info session planned

Fun program for kids 4 to 13 years

Asphodel-Norwood - A special information session on Norwood Minor Sports' hockey skills development program will be held Oct. 26 at the Norwood Fire Hall. This is a "fun" program for boys and girls aged 4 to 13 years who want to learn skills and play hockey. This is a specially-designed alternative program for young children and children not interested in travelling but still wanting an opportunity to have some fun playing hockey.

Sessions will be held Sunday afternoons (1:30 pm to 2:30 pm) and will start as soon as the ice is in at the Coliseum.

This Sundays information session, also 1:30 pm to 3:30 pm, will give parents, players and anyone else still wanting to register a chance to learn more about the program and to ask some questions. For more information you can contact Chris Quinlan at 639-2006 or Bernadette Vanderhorst at 639-5777.

Power outage doesn't faze euchre gang

Asphodel-Norwood - Despite a power failure Oct. 15, the Friendship Club bid euchre bunch was on hand and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Mary Menton was not satisfied with one trip to the moon -- she had to go twice! Fellow travellers included George McCrone, Bill Freeman and Theresa Millett.

Overall scoring leaders were Theresa Millett and George McCrone followed closely by Helen Nelson and Gord Knight.

Share the Wealth draws were made to Ruth Clark, Patricia Knight, Barb Barber and Neilagh McCrone.

After the games refreshments were served. The next bid euchre will be held Nov. 5.

Just a reminder of the Friendship Club's "Social Tea, Bake Sale and Silent Auction" on Oct. 25 at the Pine Street Centre. This harvest-time event will run from 1 pm to 3:30 pm.

 ist, who designs and n the show, portrayed

a series of colourful characters. They included an extremely shy guy, an evangelical faith healer, a Frenchman with beret and an accent, a pot-bellied sports coach who had a penchant for yelling "knock it off" and even an Elvis "All Shook Up" impersonation.

He did animals creeping and jumping around. One of his creatures even slithered right into surprised members of the audience. A highlight was his interpretation of a ballerina which he performed dancing backwards with a mask on the back of his head. It was an extraordinarily athletic effort.

In one skit, wearing a fierce-faced mask, and grunting threateningly, he dashed into the audience, picked up a startled 11-year-old, tossed him over his shoulder and carried him back on stage.

In contrast to the hilarity, Faust presented a touching tribute to a black woman by the name of Margie Tucker who helped raise him and his siblings while they were growing up in New Orleans. He told the story while putting on a stuffed body suit and a huge head and then dancing to Solomon Burke's "Cry to Me" just like he remembered she did at his home as a kid.

Faust, based now in Toronto, was scheduled to depart for Florida last Monday for a series of engagements.

As they say in those golf commercials, this guy is good...very, very good!

"As for the three arenas should continue to repair and upgrade the ones we already have," she said at the all-Candidates' meeting at CDHS Oct. 16th.

Ellis would like to see more extensive maintenance of rural roads, including paving and brush cutting. She said brush is growing at the intersections and corners of the roads, making it very dangerous for motorists to see oncoming traffic.

The candidate supports the completion of the sus-

 the Rotary Trail with Ferris Park.

"We have hundreds of people using the trail who would like to see it ex-

Mrs. Ellis also supports the study and development of a long-range plan for a second bridge crossing the Trent River in Campbellford.

Mayoral protest candidate would make municipal staff cut

By Rolly Ethier

Campbellford--Without any experience whatever in municipal politics, Hector Macmillan Jr. is running for the position of Mayor of Trent Hills as something of a maverick protest candidate.

He blames the current Council for a series of poor decisions such as the high cost of renovating the corewall sewer line and the implementation of a suspension bridge tourist attraction connecting the Ranney Falls gorge to Ferris Park.

The man who has already won the battle of having more election signs on the roadways than any other candidate says it's time the municipality got "more bang for our bucks" because "we can no longer spend money frivolously."

"We have major sewer mains in the core walls that will haunt us for eternity until they are abandoned and new ones installed outside the walls," he says in his election manifesto.

Macmillan, son of former Campbellford mayor Hector Macmillan, has taken aim particularly hard on the decision of building the suspension bridge, which has been financed through a SuperBuild initiative, with provincial dollars paying for half the costs.

Anti Suspension Bridge
"We are about to have a suspension bridge for which we will be unable to afford insurance," says Macmillan. "Someone will be injured or worse, and you know it will ultimately occur. It is foolish to think otherwise."

The amalgamation aftermath also is a sore point with Macmillan. It is his belief that the merger of Campbellford/Seymour, Hastings and Percy should have brought staff cuts. Instead, he says, the municipality has a larger payroll than ever "with su-perisors supervising supervisors."

Like most of the other candidates, however, Macmillan is opposed to the closing of any of the three arenas in Trent Hills.

"How could anyone possibly think of ripping the heart and soul out of a community," he said. "We do not need ice in all three at one time but one could be used for indoor activities such as indoor soccer and lacrosse."

But Macmillan, the operator of the Ultramar Gas Bar on Front Street, wonders how much longer the municipality will continue to pour money into Ferris Park. He says the provincial government must be convinced to take it back under their wing or failing that he would be in favour of leasing the park to a private operator to be turned into a water park, include slides and a mini-Canada.

Madoc Garden news, holiday ideas

By G. Boyd

Hello to my fellow gardeners around the world, from Centre Hastings and more particularly Moira Lake. Yes I haven't been at the keyboard for a while as I am trying to do some of my own gardening. Attending other technical up dates and guest speaker events.

In Sept. the Madoc Garden Club welcomed, Master Gardeners Nancy Brady and Alison Haggarty and the topic was, "Bulbs that need to be lifted and proper storage." Alison spoke first about the bulbs that need to be lifted out of the gardens, a few examples Cannon Lily, Cyclamen, Dahlia, Gladiolus, Caladium and Calla Lily. We are in zone four in this part of the country and our winters are too cold, these bulbs will fall freeze.

Some questions were asked about micro - climate situations in some gardens where a particular garden setting zone could be raised to zone five. This might work if bulbs were planted close to house foundations, deeper than normal depth, large amounts of leaves were used and a heavy snowfall arrived before the ground froze. The snow would have to remain right through till the spring and there are no guarantees from past experiences.

Better to lift and store. Alison went on to explain that after the first killing frost (second or third week in Sept.) dig up your tubers, rhizomes and bulbs, cut the blackened tops off, shake the soil from the roots. Leaving them to dry in the sun but in a sheltered location from the cold for several days. Dust with a fungicide powder, place in containers and cover with peat or loose sterile earth. A cool crawl- space under stairs in the basement or even a garage as long as the temperature doesn't get below freezing and is dark. This will prevent growth through the winter months.

(Fall flowering autumn crocus; meadow saffron all called Colchicum.) These bulbs bloom just like spring crocus except in the spring, they only produce leaves and as the summer wears on the leaves disappear. In Sept. onwards to November the crocus flower pushes into bloom in very large flowers, white, pink and purple. They can attain a height of more than five inches, (twelve-mm). This makes a lovely show in ones rockery or garden edge when annuals and perennials have been killed by early frost.

Nancy Brady took over this part of the presentation by showing transparencies of spring bulbs and speaking on planting times in the fall before freeze up. The use of bulb fertilizer added to the soil to give bulbs a chance to produce roots before winter. Daffodils mixed into Tulips helps to discourage squirrels and chipmunks from digging and eating dinner. Chicken wire buried just below the surface of the ground works really well and the spring growth is not hindered. Another idea was human hair spread over the bed, this works on Deer but not sure about squirrels. (Of course one could always rig up a noise - maker to scare the creatures away. That is if your neighbors don't complain about the noise.) The transparency show gave all our members a warm feeling of what next spring would bring to their gardens in a burst of spring colour.

The coordinator thanked Alison Haggarty and Nancy Brady for the wonderful presentation presented to the members.

Floral Arrangements for Thanksgiving

The Madoc Garden Club moved their meeting up a week to give our speaker Anne Marie McBeath the opportunity to demonstrate her creative talents in making floral arrangements for Thanksgiving.

Anne Marie started out with a large handled wicker basket about 10" deep, 24"

long and 12" wide. This was to be set out on your front door veranda and filled with Kale in water tubes, green foam was added to give height to the arrangement. Hydrangea flower balls (green) were added around the perimeter at varying heights. Solomon Seal was added to give height to the basket, Hosta leaves were added as filler, small gourds of various shapes and sizes were added behind the Kale. The handle was wrapped in Grape vine and a large water-proof bow was made and tied on, then a string of miniature lights was added for an evening presentation.

Next up 12" enamel Teapot as a table decoration. Green foam soaked in water before hand then pushed down into the pot. Yellow

Mums were placed in the centre to give height; red Daisies and Sedum were put around the perimeter. Baby Breeze, Queen Anne's Lace, and thin Bull Rushes were added in combination of 3 or 5. Anne Marie advised us that a good floral-designer never would use an even number in creating an arrangement.

Lastly a very simple idea using the above principle a tall narrow painted flower-pot filled with wet or dried foam. Three fresh or dried Daisies of red, white and red of different heights placed in a vertical line one above each other. Green moss then placed around the top of the pot to cover the foam and left to cascade over the sides of the rim. A very simple idea but quite dramatic.

This concluded Anne Marie's presentation of Floral Arrangements for Thanksgiving. Anne did mention that on Nov. 30th at 454 Mill Rd. just north of Madoc, "Christmas by the Mill". Anne will have Christmas Wreaths for sale.

The coordinator thanked Anne Marie McBeath for the inspiring presentation.

Nov. 20th meeting we will have as our guest speaker Lisa Purves from Connors Nurseries who will speak on House, Tropical, indoor Bog Plants and care.

How-to book makes building a backyard skating rink easy

(O.P.S.) Kitchener, ON - October 15, 2003 - A unique how-to book - one that makes it easier for families to enjoy a cold-weather Canadian custom, right in their own backyards - is back for the 2003/04 winter season. Thanks, Dad! How to make a backyard skating rink your family will love (originally released in 2002), provides step-by-step instructions and pictures for an innovative kind of rink - one that solves common problems like uneven yards, poor ice quality, etc. - all based on a Kitchener, Ontario, father's desire to make a great skating rink for his son.

"This rink is different," explains real-life dad and mechanical engineer, Murray

Feick, who notes that typical rinks can be plagued with problems: they don't fill properly, ice is too thin in some spots and non-existent in others, the backyard floods. "It can be a big disappointment for everyone, especially the kids."

Perfect design

Feick's rink, which he perfected over the course of two winters, uses materials that can be easily purchased at many hardware or home improvement stores. It uses a floating tube principle similar to the increasingly popular self-supporting swimming pools. With a tarp and corrugated pipe as the main components, this rink adapts to non-level yards, provides a rink border that's safe for kids and remains level as water fills the rink. The rink's curved corners keep the puck moving (and keeps the puck on the ice). During mild weather, the border maintains the rink's shape or integrity. And once the rink materials are purchased, they can be re-used, year after year. "For families," notes Feick, "that investment can mean hours of skating for the kids, fresh air and exercise to spend time with friends and a lot of great photos and memories."

Feick's success with his own rink and his family's enjoyment of it prompted him to put his ideas in writing. Thanks, Dad!, created with his wife, Daina, is a 40-page booklet that features

step-by-step instructions, pictures, "weatherproof" paper, and Feick's e-mail address for rink builders to ask questions and provide feedback. "I would really like people to enjoy the backyard rink experience as much as we did," says Feick. Since its release late last year, the book has found its way into approximately 1,500 (gloved) Canadian hands and has been featured on Canada AM, CBC Radio and other Canadian media.

Thanks, Dad! How to make a backyard skating rink your family will love is available at Chapters/Indigo, select independent bookstores and online at (www.raylen.com/thanksdad).
